May attempt to transplant liver

Mrs. Dorothy Henderson, 32, of Alton, left by Lear Jet from Civic Memorial Airport Tuesday, bound for the University of Colorado at Denver for a possible liver transplant.

Mrs. Henderson is suffering from a rare, terminal disease called sclerosing cholangitis, an inflammation and blockage of the bile ducts, according to Dr. Alvin R. Brown, St. Elizabeth Hospital gastroenterologist who arranged the surgery with university officials.

If the surgery is performed, Mrs. Henderson will be the second person in North America with her particular diagnosis to have the operation. The first transplant of this kind was done 10 months ago and the patient is still living.

Mrs. Henderson left on the flight in a specially equipped plane from St. Elizabeth Hospital where she has been under treatment for the past week and a half.

Dr. Brown said the disease is a "very rare one" and that it usually runs its course in two to eight years. Mrs. Henderson has had the disease for six years, he said, "and is beginning to go downhill."

Mrs. Henderson, mother of two children ages 8 and 12, said she is nervous but "anxious to go through with the operation."

She was taken to the airport from the hospital here by ambulance and was accompanied on the flight by a registered nurse from the hospital, her father, Arthur Henderson, a sister and a nephew.

Town to sue ex-supervisor

The Nameoki Town Board of Trustees voted Tuesday night to authorize the filing of a suit in Madison County Circuit Court to try to recover $9,597 in salaries former township supervisor Louis Whitsell paid his wife, Dell, from general assistance funds for part-time help.

Trustee Norman Hessler, chairman of the finance committee, said he believes the township has sufficient proof that Whitsell knew the state was refusing to pay Mrs. Whitsell's salary from general assistance funds, but that Whitsell ignored letters from the state and paid her the $9,597 during 1976 and 1977 for part-time aid in the township office.

Whitsell has said the county general assistance office told him on the telephone that he could hire his wife, but to list her part-time pay as "unauthorized" until the state could decide whether to approve paying her wages.

Whitsell also has a copy of a letter from the Department of Public Aid telling him he could continue utilizing her part-time, but to continue to list her wages as "unauthorized."

The township has been informed by Ted Funkhouser, director of the Public Aid office in Madison County, that it may lose future general assistance subsidies from the state, unless the $9,597 in wages are repaid to the state.

Hessler said he is aware of the letter Whitsell has, telling him he may continue hiring his wife, but said he also has copies of five other letters from the state written to Whitsell denying him

ICY CONDITIONS contributed to an accident on the McKinley Bridge in Venice Monday afternoon as this eastbound car driven by Kathryn Sherly, 23, of Hartford, struck one of the concrete abutments which protect the toll booths of the bridge. The car began to skid as the driver began braking to enter the toll booth area. She suffered a cut on the nose and bruised knees and was admitted to St. Elizabeth Hospital for observation. Four other crashes on the bridge Tuesday morning — involving a total of 12 cars — resulted in only minor injuries.

$1,273 loot in burglary at mobile home

Items valued at about $1,273 were stolen during a burglary at the mobile home of Evelyn Frederick, 307 Sunny Shores, in Venice, discovered at 12:30 p.m. Tuesday.

She said she had been away from her home several days babysitting and returned to find the front door had been pried open and the window in the door broken to gain entry. The interior of the mobile home had been ransacked.

Missing are a $500 portable television set, a $700 wedding band set, about $73 cash, assorted costume jewelry, a china statue of a rooster, 10 cans of beer and a bottle of liquor. One can of beer was consumed in the home and the can was left inside.

Jury studies priest's acts

The jury trial of the Rev. Edwin Arentsen, an anti-abortion priest charged with disorderly conduct for an alleged disturbance at the Hope Clinic for Women in Granite City Jan. 19, was concluded today.

A jury of seven women and five men was selected during five hours of questioning prospective jurors Tuesday afternoon and more than an hour to pick an alternate juror Wednesday morning.

Seven prospective jurors were dismissed, five because they felt their views on abortion or their religious convictions would affect their decision.

The trial is being conducted in the Granite City Hall and Rev. Arentsen was the chief witness yesterday afternoon.

Rev. Arentsen testified he planned a demonstration at the Hope Clinic and had thought about it five years, since the Supreme Court decision legalizing some abortions. Commenting on his arrest and publicity it received, Rev.

Arentsen said he "engineered it," and testified he felt he was successful in what he tried to do, and the day (Jan. 19) turned out as he wanted it to.

He said he did not recall vividly what happened outside of the clinic, but said he knew he wanted to go inside and there were people between him and the door. "It was simply trying to get in there and see what was going on. I can't discuss particulars because juveniles are involved, but we have tried state-outs with officers using their private cars in an attempt to catch them," Bennett said.

One resident requested additional police patrols in the subdivision and Bennett agreed to increase the number of times a police car will patrol the area, but commented, "Even if we triple our patrols out there, it probably will not help."

"The vandals do not occur when the police are there and the juveniles can see a police car coming a long time before we can see them hiding," the chief said.

3-day holiday for many, but schools to open

There will be school Monday, but for many it will be a three-day holiday with all state, county and federal offices closed in honor of George Washington's birthday.

The Madison County courthouse, all state of Illinois offices and all area banks and savings and loan institutions, will be closed Saturday, Sunday and Monday.

There will be normal mail delivery and services by the post offices on Saturday. However there will be no mail delivery or other services on Monday.

The lobbies will be open on Sunday and Monday for postal box customers in the mornings. Normal hours and services will resume at the post offices on Tuesday, Feb. 21.

The Press-Record will publish Monday. Granite City, Madison and Venice city offices will be open Monday.

Weather outlook

Cloudy and cold today; high in the low to mid-20s. Cloudy and cold tonight and Friday with a chance of snow beginning tonight and continuing Friday. Low tonight in the teens. High Friday 20 to 25. Saturday through Monday, chance of snow Saturday. Highs in the upper 20s and lows in the teens during the period.

Estes budget out of control

James Estes, Democratic-endorsed primary candidate for Madison County sheriff, exercised little or no control over his budgets when he was highway commissioner of Chouteau Township, according to the certified public accountants who audited the township's books.

Audit reports for 1974 and 1975 show that the auditors were unable to draw conclusions about the accuracy of the highway department financial records due to "the lack of internal controls and the nature of the township's records."

The reports note, "During the course of our examination, certain questionable transactions and expenditures in the township road district funds came to our attention...we were unable to satisfy ourselves as to the propriety of these transactions and expenditures by means of other audit procedures.

"As a result, we are unable to express an opinion on the accompanying financial statements of the township highway funds," the report released by R. C. Scheffel & Co., dated June 10, 1976, noted.

In the March 24, 1975, audit

AWAITING TRIAL The Reverend Edwin F. Arentsen, top right, chats with friends and supporters in the lobby of the City Hall of Granite City outside the doors of the Third Judicial Circuit courtroom Tuesday afternoon. Rev. Arentsen was arrested Jan. 19 outside the Hope Clinic for Women and was charged with disorderly conduct. The priest pleaded innocent and requested a jury trial, saying he had tried to enter the clinic and talk with patients and staff members.

Stolen — one vacation

By ALICE M. CURLESS

Missing — one vacation.

A family vacation was part of the loot taken in a burglary at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ronnie Skinner, 703 N. 20th St., Granite City, sometime between Feb. 3 and Feb. 8.

Taken in the burglary was an asbestos strongbox, 12 by 18 inches, which contained personal papers, their marriage license, insurance policies, birth certificates, four passports and four tickets to Paris, France, via TWA air line for March 2.

"We have been planning and saving for this trip for two years," said Mrs. Skinner, who is a native of France and a French citizen.

"We can't go now because it will take too long to have my passport replaced," she said Tuesday.

Mrs. Skinner said that all the passports have to be invalidated and replaced, but hers must come from the French Consulate in Chicago.

"They told me it would take 4-5 weeks to process it after they get the application with new photographs and a copy of the police report."

Skinner said having his passport replaced is also going to take time, since he must provide a copy of his birth certificate, which was also in the stolen box.

"I have to send to the state capital in Kentucky for a copy of that," he said. "The kids were born here, so their's will not be a problem."

The Skinners have two children, Jennifer, age six years, and Jeremy, 18 months, who were to have accompanied their parents on the trip.

Mrs. Skinner's parents, M. & Mme. Germaine Malmarche of Bordeaux, France, were to have visited their daughter here last summer, but M. Malmarche was ill and unable to make the trip.

Mrs. Skinner has lived in Granite City nine years, and has been home to France only once, three and a half years ago.

"I really wanted my parents to meet their new grandson," she said.

"My mother is planning so much on our coming. I had a letter from her yesterday and she said, 'Just one more month and we will be together.' She had not yet got my letter about the burglary."

Getting the passports replaced is only part of the problem; the tickets are another.

"When we bought the tickets, the airline said if we couldn't go for some good reason, we could get our money refunded," said Skinner.

"Now they tell me that even though the tickets couldn't be used until March 2, they have been canceled, they can't be replaced."

"They said we could buy new tickets, and if the old ones haven't turned up in four or five months, we would get a partial refund. But there would be a penalty for cancellation."

"And, if we can't go until after the end of March, it will cost $300 to $500 because it will be a new travel season."

"It is only because I forgot to do something before we left for the weekend that I am not in more trouble," said Mrs. Skinner.

"I just got my new alien registration card and I was going to put it in the box. If I do not have it and I leave the country, I would not be able to come back."

"Even if we could work out all these problems, our vacation time will be up by then," she said.

The Skinners have offered a reward for the return of the missing documents, with no questions asked.

Anyone having information about them is being asked to call 876-2946.

"That box contained half our lives," said Skinner. "We would give a lot to have it back."

Even though Mr. and Mrs. Skinner are just another victim of the increasing home burglaries in the U.S., they feel they have lost something a great deal more important than the personal possessions and money which were taken.

These particular thieves have stolen a part of their, and their children's, lives.

Mediation likely in city talks

Street Department employees and members of the Granite City Council negotiating committee are expected to submit to mediation a dispute over a new working agreement which has been stalemate since last May, it was reported Wednesday.

City officials have refused consistently to approve an agreement that would provide longevity pay in the street department such as is now in effect for the police and fire departments.

Street Department workers have refused to accept any city proposal for a new three-year working agreement that does not include a longevity pay clause.

Generally, salary, vacation, and other items have been agreed upon. The city has offered salary increases of 6 per cent this year, 8 per cent next year and 8.5 per cent the third year of the agreement.

The council's negotiating committee, headed by Fourth Ward Alderman Warren Decatur, met with street employee representatives of the Teamsters and Laborers' Unions last week, but made no progress in settlement of the longevity pay dispute, it was reported.

An agreement with street department workers is the only one remaining unsettled. New agreements with the Police and Fire departments were approved by the council and ratified by the unions two weeks ago.

Those agreements, also in negotiation since last May, were settled only after the city agreed to increase the amount of pay raises granted earlier in the year, as a compromise for a demand by the police and firemen for paid hospitalization after retirement until age 65.

Decatur's committee is expected to report results of the latest meeting with street department representatives during the next meeting of the council Tuesday, Feb. 21.

Council members at that time may authorize mediation of the dispute, although in instances involving the police and fire departments the aldermen approved mediation so long as it was not binding upon the council.

Driver hurt

Howard Dillie, 74, of 2249 Pontoon Road, was injured when his car and the auto of David Fitch, Washington Park, collided on Route 203 at Nameoki Road at 7:45 a.m. Saturday.

Dillie was charged with making an improper turn after his auto was alleged to have made a left turn from the right northbound lane of Route 203 in front of the northbound car in the inside lane.

Dillie was taken by ambulance to St. Elizabeth Hospital with a cut to his head, abrasions to both knees and a possible broken neck, authorities indicated. He was transferred to St. John's Mercy Hospital, Westwood, Mo.

St. Louis U. degrees earned

Two students from Granite City graduated in January 1978 from St. Louis University.

Receiving January degrees were Nancy Lee Accola, 2118 Hamilton, master of science, medical-surgical nursing; and Jean Frances Edwards, 2533 Stratford Lane, bachelor of arts, mathematics, summa cum laude.

The university granted degrees to 406 students. It is the oldest university west of the Mississippi River. Founded in 1818, it is a private, Catholic, Jesuit institution dedicated to maintaining human values in an urban society.

Those who have received August 1977 degrees include: Penelope Jean Cason, 2530 Ivy Lane, bachelor of science in nursing; James W. Foley, 2597 Lynch Ave., master in business administration; and Stephen C. Powderly, 121 Riviera Drive, bachelor of science, business administration.

C. A. Sparks, ex-alderman dies at 85

Charles A. Sparks, 85, of 2702 E. 24th St., a former Granite City alderman, was pronounced dead at home at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday by William Sternberg, Madison County deputy coroner. Mr. Sparks had been ill four and one-half months.

Born in Morgantown, Ky., Mr. Sparks resided in this area 58 years. He served as Sixth Ward alderman for 16 years during the late 1940's.

Mr. Sparks was a member of Sacred Heart Catholic Church. He retired from National Lead Co. as a supervisor after 38 years service.

His wife, Mrs. Agatha Sparks, died in 1960.

Survivors include four sons, Tom of Mammoth Springs, Ark.; Vernon and Charles Sparks, both of Collinsville, and Joe Sparks of Caseyville; three daughters, Mrs. Frances Shelton and Mrs. Fred (Peggy) Belcher, both of Granite City, and Mrs. Tom (Jeanine) Carmody of Jacksonville, Ill.; 17 grandchildren and 17 great-grandchildren.

Funeral arrangements are given in the obituary column.

Town to sue

 permission to pay his wife from general assistance funds.

A December 1974 letter from Public Aid informed Whitsell of his request for two full-time employees and one part-time employee was denied because the workload indicated a need for only one full-time employee for general assistance, Hessler contended.

He also has on file letters dated July 7, 1975, Oct. 27, 1976, Jan. 7, 1977, and April 21, 1977, which deny Whitsell permission to pay a part-time employee, he contends.

Jan. 31, 1978, a letter was sent to Whitsell, notifying him he had five days to tell the trustees how he intended to repay the money or other action would be taken.

Whitsell attended a Feb. 2 budget meeting and told the trustees he was unaware of the letters saying he could not hire a part-time employee, and Whitsell said he did not intend to repay any part of the money, Hessler related.

Whitsell, who attended Tuesday night's Pontiac Village Board meeting, was not in the audience at the township meeting to address himself to the issue.

The township board passed a resolution Tuesday night authorizing Supervisor Harold Davis to file suit against Whitsell in an attempt to recover the salaries.

The text of that resolution follows:

"The supervisor has requested the finance committee to investigate the conduct of the general assistance fund in which the Illinois Department of Public Aid requested the town to reimburse the general assistance fund the sum of $9,597.96 for unauthorized salaries paid by the previous supervisor, Louis Whitsell.

"The finance committee has learned that Whitsell requested authority for a part-time employee but that the request was denied and that he, nevertheless, hired a part-time employee and paid wages, knowing that the wages were unauthorized.

"The Illinois Department of Public Aid has requested reimbursement to the general assistance fund from the town fund, because the wage payments were improper.

"Last September, we requested assistance from Whitsell to clear up the matter and he did not respond to that request. Recently, we have again written to him and since he has ignored our request for assistance, we requested that he reimburse the township for the amount required to be paid to the general assistance fund.

"In response to this, we have received no additional information supporting authorization for said payments. Therefore, your finance committee moves that the trustees authorize and direct the supervisor to initiate a lawsuit against the former supervisor to recover the unauthorized payments."

Hessler said he feels it is unfortunate the Department of Public Aid has decided to hold the township responsible for "the actions of one man," rather than the department dealing directly with Whitsell.

"It should not be a burden on the taxpayers supporting the general fund, or on the public aid recipients, to repay these expenditures," Hessler said.

Responding to charges by Whitsell that the town board seated at that time, including Hessler and others who are still on the board, approved Mrs. Whitsell's salary twice each month, Hessler said the board state had refused to authorize her hiring from general assistance funds.

"If we had known there was a need for another employee and that the state would not pay for her salary, we probably would have voted at that time to pay her from the town fund. The work has to get done," Hessler concluded.

Frank Bezan dies at 93

Frank Bezan, 93, of 907 Alton Ave., Madison, a 74 year resident of the Quad-Cities, died at 2:10 a.m. Wednesday at Pleasant Rest Nursing Home, Collinsville. He resided at the nursing home eight months.

Mr. Bezan was born in Yugoslavia. He was a member of St. Mary's Roman Catholic Church and was a member of Lodge Volebit 222, Croatian Fraternal Union, for over 50 years.

Mr. Bezan was employed as a machine operator at the American Car and Foundry in Madison, until his retirement.

His wife, Mrs. Frances (Zellich) Bezan, died in 1943, and a son, Frank Bezan, preceded him in death.

Survivors include two sons, Thomas and Steve Bezan; and two daughters, Mrs. Louis (Ann) Bezan and Mrs. Ray Nemeth, all of Granite City; a sister, Mrs. Mary Starceovich of Chicago; 13 grandchildren, 10 great-grandchildren, and one great-great-grandchild.

Funeral arrangements are given in the obituary column.

Fund party here Monday to aid Luft

A fund-raising cocktail party will be held for Richard "Dick" Luft, a candidate for state comptroller, on Monday, Feb. 20, at the Croatian Home, 1000 Madison Ave., Madison, between 7 p.m. and 9 p.m. Circuit Clerk Willard V. Portell commented today, "I was asked to help Dick Luft in Madison County and am doing so very willingly. It is my opinion that he is an excellent candidate."

"I became acquainted with him in the legislature and also knew him as auditor of Tazewell County. He has done a credible job and is a congenial fellow. I know he would make an excellent candidate in the fall for the Democratic ticket."

"I feel the state ticket should be equalized and Downstate counties should get their fair portion of candidates as much as Cook County if we have such well-qualified candidates. There will be a few speeches, and all candidates appearing will be introduced."

TAKE PICKUP TRUCK

The gray 1977 Ford three-quarter ton pickup truck of David Bowman, 125 Edwardsville Road, was stolen from his home between 10 p.m. Wednesday and 1:10 a.m. today. The truck has four-wheel drive, white wheels and an electric winch on the front bumper.

Pledges study of malpractice insurance costs

Steve Maragides, candidate for state senator, said Wednesday night that if elected he will put heavy emphasis on legislative study of medical malpractice insurance and its effect on high health care costs.

He made his remarks at a meeting of Seventh Ward residents hosted by Alderman Paul Ray Bowler at the Nameoki Recreation Center. Maragides said that the high cost of medical malpractice insurance is not the only reason for high health care costs, but that it was certainly a contributing factor.

"The proponents of malpractice suits are fond of quoting Dr. Paul Dudley White, who said that if there were no medical malpractice, there would be no medical malpractice suits. However, Dr. White was naive," Maragides said.

"A physician who is genuinely negligent should pay for his mistakes. However, the problem arises when juries look upon a physician as a guarantor of recovery from illness or accident, and no physician is God," he continued.

"The problem of health care should be of primary concern to the legislature because it involves our very existence as living human beings and because the expenditures for health care in the nation are rapidly approaching the amount spent for national defense."

Maragides said that his 11 years experience as a workmen's compensation lawyer have given him insights into the field of medicine not available to most non-medical persons.

School filing opens Feb. 22

The filing period for candidates who will seek School Board seats in the April 8 school elections in the Quad-City area will open Wednesday, Feb. 22.

Nominating petitions are available at the administrative offices of Granite City School District 9, Venice School District 3 and Madison School District 12.

Voters will elect eight Board of Education members in the balloting — three in Madison, three in Venice and two in Granite City.

Filing will continue through March 17, followed by a four-day withdrawal period.

Madison district voters will elect two board members to fill three-year terms, and one to fill a vacancy.

Richard Zeisset, an incumbent board member whose term expires this year, has said he will seek re-election to a full term, but David Miskelly, also an incumbent, said he is undecided at this time if he will be a candidate.

Eivers P. Johnson who was appointed to fill the vacancy of former board member Donald Boyer, announced that he will seek election to the one-year term.

Other Madison board members whose terms do not expire this year are Harold Plisk, Sam Dymas, Chester McManaway and Frank Eaves. Eaves is board president.

Voters of Venice School District 3 are to elect three board members. Like the Madison district, two regular seats for three-year terms and one vacancy are at stake there.

Incumbent Venice Board members whose terms expire are John Boush and Jerry Cicio. George Wade is serving by appointment. One board seat will be open for the remaining one-year of that board position. Wade was appointed to fill the vacancy of former board member Jackie Leatherman.

Other Venice board members are Richard Bailey, president; Jack Tolliver, secretary; Wilbert Glasper and Earl Hogan.

In the Granite City district, the terms of Thomas Misfok, board president, and Monroe Worthen are to expire this year and will be filled by election.

Other Granite City board incumbents are Stephen Saltich, Donald Stucke, George Moore, Norman Hall and Dewey Melton.

The surgical team considering Mrs. Henderson's case is headed by Dr. Larry Kaap. The complete workup, surgery and follow-up care will cost between $10,000 and $20,000 and is being covered by a research grant. Transportation was provided by East Alton attorney Paul Pratt.

Mrs. Henderson's case was accepted at the university after review by the research committee, said Dr. Brown at St. Elizabeth Hospital here who is familiar with the work of Dr. Thomas Starzl, a pioneer in the field of liver transplanting.

Dr. Starzl is professor and chairman of the Department of Surgery at the University of Colorado at Denver.

Mrs. Henderson, who has known of her diagnosis for five years, said she was unsure of what to do when she was presented with the transplant operation.

She said she read the limited information that is available on the transplant procedure, a surgery considered to be only in the experimental stage.

Finally, after study, prayers and support from her family, she made the decision to have the operation.

Date of the surgery is unknown at this time pending Mrs. Henderson's case review by the surgical team.

Dempsey, divan members honored at Ainaad dinner

Jack Dempsey, Granite City businessman and the 1978 potentate of Ainaad Shrine, and members of the divan, were honored at the Ainaad Presentation Dinner and Stage Program during the weekend at the Ainaad Temple in East St. Louis, attended by 2,500 nobles and guests.

A river boat replica on the stage provided the entrance for the officers and furnished the setting for special entertainment during the evening.

Members of the Divan include Richard Ervay, chief rabbi; Donald Adams, high priest; prophet; Raymond Burton, captain of the guard, and the newly-elected member, Irvin State Jr., outer guard, all of Granite City.

Gerald Hutton, baritone, sang "Ole Man River" as the highlight of his musical presentation, and magician Gene DeVoe entertained with magical feats and a comedy repertoire.

Precision dance numbers were performed by the Jerri Straz Dancers, a five-girl troupe dressed in exotic costumes reminiscent of the Ziegfeld follies.

Sues former levee district

A suit asking $180,000 damages and restoration of his job as an operating engineer with the sagitary district has been filed in U.S. District Court at East St. Louis by a former employee of the now defunct East Side Levee and Sanitary District.

The suit names Jack Scoville, William Eberold and Russell Robinson, as well as the district, as defendants. Scoville and Eberold no longer are trustees of the district.

Robinson now is president of the Metro-East Sanitary district which replaced the old levee district.

Jack Brazzell alleges in the complaint that he was disgraced by his job as an operating engineer in December 1972 by the late Romel Wilson, then a member of the levee board. He claims the dismissal never was authorized officially by the board of trustees.

The suit asks $80,000 in actual damages, plus accrued benefits and reinstatement by the present Metro-East district which replaced the old levee district. He also asks $100,000 in punitive damages from the former levee board trustees.

Nick D. Vasiloff of Madison, attorney for Brazzell, said the defunct district still is liable for damages to his client.

SO THIS IS HOW IT WORKS. Bob Williams, assistant professor of education at Southern University at Edwardsville, experiments with survival training materials at the Pensacola Naval Air Station in Florida. He took a group of local area teachers interested in aerospace education on a weekend visit to the Florida facility.

Teachers sharing aerial experiences with pupils

"Flying is one of the things that children's dreams are made of. When I was a kid I loved to imagine what it would feel like to sit in the cockpit of a plane and soar through the air. Kids dream about doing those things, and they want to know what it's really like."

Bob Williams, an assistant professor of elementary education at SIUE, gets excited when he talks about teaching children about aeronautics. He feels that although movies and books are good ways for youngsters to learn, the best way is through first-hand experience or by their teacher's experience. That's why 30 area elementary school teachers got a chance to realize some of their childhood dreams by spending a weekend at the Naval Air Station at Pensacola, Fla.

On a cold Friday morning, Williams and his group of teachers gathered at Scott Air Force Base for their trip to Florida amid boxes of kites and cameras.

"I instructed them to bring along cameras so they could have plenty of pictures to show the kids in their classes. The idea is that most kids will never get this type of experience, so we wanted to try to bring home as many memories as possible to show them."

"The kites, of course, were for flying on the beach," Williams explained. Kite flying is one of his most popular ways of teaching aeronautics.

Flight service for the trip was provided by the U.S. Air Force, and the group was given the opportunity to fly in a cargo plane built during the Korean War.

A little primitive, noisy and uncomfortable by today's standards, the plane itself was the most exciting part for many of the teachers. Thrilled by the workings of such a plane, most of the group even got a chance to actually sit in the cockpit's seat and "fly" the plane.

"My kids are never going to believe that their teacher actually got to fly the plane," exclaimed one teacher after her turn in the cockpit.

Upon reaching Pensacola Naval Air Station, the teachers were given a bus tour around the base and then were shown to their quarters.

For the next two days, they lived in modern barracks and ate in the mess hall "so they could get the feel of what life on a Navy base is like," Williams said.

Saturday's schedule began with a tour through the Naval Aviation Museum, where several purchased books and model airplanes for their classes to use.

Next, they were given a tour through the Survival Training Center, where Navy personnel gave demonstrations on how to build various kinds of wild animal traps and shelters.

The remainder of the afternoon was spent visiting the site of an old fort and then a kite-flying lesson was held on the beach.

"I think that in many ways this is the most usable part of the trip," Williams said. "Some of these people never had a kite string in their hands before, and I bet that most of these teachers will have their classes fly kites in the spring."

Williams spent most of the time helping people tie tails to the kites and showing them techniques to get the kites into the air.

"Just think! What I've shared with 30 teachers could possibly be taught to a couple thousand kids if each teacher goes back to school and shows two other teachers there and then they all tell their classes about it," Williams said.

"The teachers who have younger children could even show the parents how to fly a kite and get them involved with a class project."

Some of the teachers took time out from their kites to collect sand and sea shells for their classes.

"When I told my students about the trip, the thing they thought was the neatest of all was that we really got to fly the plane," said Anita Runge. "That really impressed them."

Miss Runge teaches primary special education resources.

"We brought some model planes back from the Aviation Museum, and we'll let the kids take them outside to fly when the weather gets warmer. We've also ordered a film on the Blue Angels precision flying team from the Navy office in St. Louis to show the kids," she said.

Yvonne Breiner, a graduate assistant who works at the SIUE Early Childhood Center, said she plans to set up a survival training project.

"I've picked up a lot of information on it, and I'd like to show the kids things like how to get water in the desert."

"Most of the things I learned had to be geared down to a level that the pre-schoolers could understand, but all the kids were fascinated when I told them about the plane we flew on."

Most of the teachers who took the trip had been in the aeronautics workshop that Williams teaches during the summer at SIUE.

"Many of these teachers have been using aerospace education with their kids before, and the kids always want more of it," he concluded.

Music workshop at child center

Happy Day Child Development Center, 24th Street and Grand Avenue, will host a Music Workshop on Saturday, March 4, from 9:40 a.m. to 12 noon for early childhood, pre-school, kindergarten and music educators.

Pre-registration is preferred. "The Joy of Pre-School Music" will deal with the necessity of tone and rhythm in the life of a child and music pedagogy for the early years.

The workshop will be presented by Betty Goodman Riles, author-composer (ASCAAP) of the book and recording "Miss Betty's Happy Songs For Little People"; published for music education by Niel A. Kjos, Park Ridge, Ill. and San Diego, Calif.

The book-album has been adopted by private and public school music departments in several states.

Wall Street Journal—Remember the moron jokes of years ago, precursors of today's "ethnic" jokes? In one, the moron throws his clock out the window to see how time flies.

For some reason we were reminded of this ancient gag while leafing through the Feb. 4 National Journal, in which various officials of the $10 billion, 19,000-employee Department of Energy insist that it isn't true they favor a no-growth policy.

They do, too, want to find some energy soon. As one put it: "We can afford to waste money, but we can't afford to waste time."

Well, it's later than DOE thinks. For one thing, it doesn't really control the administration's energy policy. No one does, least of all the president himself.

White House environmentalists have sidetracked the president's promise of last summer to speed up nuclear power plant licensing with their objections to proposed siting and waste disposal rules.

Interior Secretary Andrus proposes to make a chunk of Alaska that's larger than Norway off limits to oil and gas exploration as part of his continuing no-energy policy.

He also dithers over opening huge federal coal deposits in the West for mining. This, with the help of the cost burdens imposed by the new stripmining bill, is turning the President's coal development hopes into a pipe dream.

Oil and gas exploration off the East Coast is in the hands of the courts and Congress, where it may stay for awhile.

DOE, however, does its share to impede energy development. A typical DOE operation is that of Paul Bloom, who investigates oil companies his boss thinks are guilty of "transubstantiation," i.e. turning "old" oil into "new" oil.

Mr. Bloom's subpoenas have three quarters of the oil industry's talent tied up in paperwork.

Mr. Bloom's boss is John F. O'Leary, DOE's deputy secretary, who used to boss the Federal Energy Administration before it became part of this new, efficient DOE.

Mr. O'Leary is the fellow who advised President Carter a year ago that the United States is fast running out of gas, there's nothing we can do about it, no more to be had at any price.

When, in this space, we presented the good news that there is at least 1,001 years of natural gas out there, according to the government's study, DOE Secretary James Schlesinger said we must have been "smoking pot."

There is no gas out there, which means the government has to regulate what's left so that it sells at no more than $1.75 per thousand cubic feet.

Tennessee Gas Transmission Corp. decided that if it wants to stay in business it had better import the stuff, and struck deals with Algeria and Mexico at prices of $2.60 per mcf and up.

DOE sat on the deals for months, until Algeria and Mexico "canceled," and DOE announced that they were charging too much.

Meanwhile, DOE's Energy Information Administration (EIA) has been trying to cut regulatory paperwork, and issued an urgent bulletin to all points.

"In order to accomplish this initial consolidation, the EIA must conduct detailed functional and user requirements analyses, systems analyses, programmatic and respondent impact studies and cost-benefit analyses, as well as program, document, and implement all cancellations, modifications and consolidations."

Time's awastin'. Can't something be done right away? Yes, says Mr. O'Leary: "We're taking a look at the entire ERDA side of the business to see which of these technologies is ready to come off the shelf, and what it takes to take it off the shelf."

Even that is futuristic talk. What can be done now to get new energy?

Well, Mr. O'Leary told the National Journal, some steps could be taken right now, such as lifting price controls on oil produced through enhanced recovery techniques. This could be done through administrative fiat.

Now we're getting someplace, wasting neither time nor money. But Mr. O'Leary isn't going to do it.

Not until Congress passes the energy bill he and Mr. Schlesinger want.

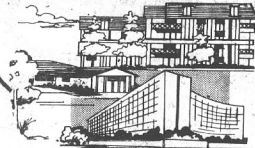

It's a "sweetener" to the oil and gas lobby that will not be delivered until the administration gets what it wants.

However long that might take. Which reminded us, for some reason, of the other old joke, in which the moron shoots his mother and father because he wants to go to the orphan's picnic.

report, the same firm noted, "Expenditures are not being controlled by the budget. Equipment purchases were made with highway funds for which there was no budget approval."

"We would suggest that an opinion as to the legality of the township making expenditures not included within the budget should be requested from their attorney," the report stated.

It made several other recommendations about highway department expenditures. It urged obtaining bids for items purchased for road work and equipment "to insure that the township is buying at the best price available."

Another recommendation was that daily time records should be maintained for all township employees showing hours worked by the day, and signed by the official in charge before approving the payment of wages.

Despite the recommendations, the auditing firm noted few improvements in the highway department in the following fiscal year.

The recommendations in June 1976 also called for daily time records, control of expenditures by the budget, and bidding for highway materials and equipment.

The audit was reviewed by Accountant Zoelzer, who helped prepare the document, during a meeting of the Chouteau Town Board of Trustees in August 1976.

At that meeting, Zoelzer said the town board should assume control over the highway budget by refusing to approve expenditures in excess of the amounts in the various budget categories.

Zoelzer said that restriction also should apply to wages for highway workers.

"You as auditors should not approve wages not in the budget," he noted.

He noted the town board of auditors has no control over the highway commissioner's expenditures, if legal, up to the point where the money in the budget has been spent.

"When it goes beyond the budget and there is no money to transfer, then that is when we as auditors, have the obligation to say no," Supervisor Walter "Dick" Sparks summarized.

Zoelzer added, "The budget is the authority to spend. Where there is no more money left in the budget, that is when we can't spend," he told the board.

Town Clerk Mrs. Patricia Polley asked if Zoelzer was indicating the highway commissioner "has no control over his accounts," and Zoelzer answered, "Yes, that's so."

The public auditor also told the board it could transfer between some accounts where there are shortages, but the board also has the right to deny transfer requests.

Township Auditor James Greer said he believed a warrant from the highway commissioner was sufficient to assure each bill was legal and to authorize the board to pay it.

Mrs. Polley noted the warrant gave her no idea from which account to pay the bill.

"It is the duty of the highway commissioner to specify from which account each bill should be paid and to be sure there is enough money in the account to pay the bill," Zoelzer said.

"We are advocating that a realistic budget be adopted and purchases be made to comply with the budget."

Auditor Cletus Bedwell commented, "We don't have the slightest idea what is in that budget," and noted it is prepared by the highway commissioner without consulting the town board.

Auditor Marion Sparks questioned whether the town board has the authority to tell Estes how to spend money and Zoelzer repeated, "Until he exceeds his budget, none. When he exceeds his budget, the board does."

He also stated, "It is the role of the office help to see that expenditures are not taken out of the wrong account, for example, to see road oil is not charged under office equipment."

Supervisor Sparks noted, "Jim should look over the bills and decide which account each expenditure should come out of. It is going to depend upon Jim giving us the information."

Sparks disagreed with several points of the audit, including the recommendation to discontinue flat mileage payments, changing to a reimbursement policy for actual miles driven.

"It is a good recommendation, but not necessarily practical," he noted, "Anyone can falsify mileage slips for money."

There also was a disagreement whether the board should authorize the paying of highway department employees for the current pay period, because Estes had not signed the payroll sheet to authorize the checks being issued.

It finally was settled on a 3-1

CHOUTEAU TOWNSHIP RECOMMENDATIONS

1. All checks should be promissory by bank for control purposes.
2. Flat rate travel allowances are being paid to some Township officials. Mileage should be reimbursed on the basis of actual miles driven and supported by appropriate vouchers.
3. Bids should be obtained for items purchased for road work and fixed assets to insure that the township is buying at the best price available.
4. A fixed asset group of accounts should be established and maintained to improve control over the assets owned by the Township.
5. Daily time records should be maintained for all full and part-time employees of the Township showing hours worked by day and these should be approved by the official in charge, prior to payment of wages.
6. All Township officials and employees involved in handling funds or maintaining accounting records for the Township should be covered by fidelity bonds. Currently the bonds covering the Township Supervisor and Road District Treasurer are in amounts less than one-half that required by statute.
7. Expenditures are not being controlled by the budget. Expenditures were made with funds, for which there was no budget approval. The board of auditors should, in the process of auditing bills requested for payment, insure that the public official has drawn his order on the proper fund in the year of his budget and appropriation ordinance. If the orders are not in accord with the budget and appropriation ordinance then the bills should not be approved.
8. The use of fire proof cabinets or safe should be utilized to safeguard accounting records and other valuable documents against fire and other casualties.
9. The practice of Township Road District employees purchasing gasoline for their own personal vehicles with Township funds should be discontinued. Employees using personal vehicles in the performance of their duties should be reimbursed on the basis of actual miles driven and supported by appropriate vouchers.
10. The practice of maintaining, licensing, and insuring equipment with Township funds without clear or merchantable title to such equipment should be discontinued.
11. Perpetual inventory records should be maintained on all bulk purchase made by the Highway Department. Fuel dispensed from bulk tanks should be documented as to the date, vehicle, employee and number of gallons dispensed.

vote, with Bedwell voting against issuing the paychecks until signed and Wilfred "Bud" Eberhardt voting to pay the employees, but adding, "I'll have to sign along with it again."

Marion and Walter Sparks also voted to pay the employees as soon as Estes signs the payroll sheet. The employees were paid.

Supervisor Sparks noted the payroll slip had been available several days for Estes to sign, but he had not signed it. "I'll have to agree it is rather neglectful," Eberhardt warned, "He is just going to have to be told we cannot operate this way. This happens every meeting. It has to come to a halt sometime."

Estes was unsuccessful in his re-election in 1976 and Wilfred "Bud" Eberhardt assumed control of the department.

Eberhardt said steps have been taken to bring the highway department's record keeping in line with the audit recommendations.

keep a close eye on their yards and report any suspicious activities to the police. What may seem like nothing to you may mean a great deal to the police," he stated.

He suggested everyone keep curtains open at night, watch their yards occasionally, and report anything suspicious.

"Every time you walk past your window, look outside. Police can't be everywhere, but if people out there can keep a good eye out and keep us informed what is happening," Bennett said.

One man asked if the police can enforce the curfew law and Bennett stated, "The law says youths must be off the street by 10 p.m. The problem of strong enforcement is that the law is unenforced."

"If a juvenile is on the street after 10 p.m., he is not necessarily in violation of the curfew law."

"If he is going to or from somewhere with his parents' knowledge, he is not in violation. We pick these kids up for curfew and go to court and the parents come in and say they know where Johnny was going and the case is thrown out of court, just like that," Bennett responded.

The board was asked if more street lights can be placed over the subdivision streets and Village Board President Floyd David Moss said the village is willing to have more lights put up.

"The problem is getting someone willing to let you put a light pole in his yard. Not many people are willing to do that."

He suggested anyone willing to have a light in his yard should subdivision notify village officials and arrangements will be made.

Moss also recommended that groups of four neighbors with adjoining rear yards consider sharing the cost of having a yard light installed to reduce vandalism. Moss, who lives in that subdivision, said he and his neighbors have put a light in their rear yards and said vandalism has decreased to their property.

Bennett said the residents are not reporting all minor vandalism to police, which makes the job of catching the vandals that much more difficult. He urged everyone to report all incidents of vandalism immediately.

"Had we been told about all these crimes, possibly we could have already upgraded our investigation and made an arrest," he said.

He noted one vandalism report did lead to the arrest of a juvenile in that subdivision during the previous week.

The residents also questioned activities of a game room in the village and Moss said youths under the age of 18 are prohibited from playing the game machines. There were complaints the police have been enforcing the age limit and Bennett said the ordinance applies only to playing the game machines.

They are allowed on the premises, which has a snack bar, but it is the owner's responsibility to enforce the age limit for playing the games. Bennett said the owner stressed that parents can be held responsible for their children's actions if there is a fight, vandalism, damage or other problem while the child is allowed to "room free," particularly after the curfew hour.

In other business, the board accepted the lowest of two bids to supply a 1978 Ford LTD 114 four on the police cruiser to the police department. The bid from Bo Beuckman Ford of Collinsville of $5,383 was lower than a $5,384 bid from B. E. Hohlt Ford of Granite City.

Trustee Loren Madison asked Bennett to check with Beuckman on the trade-in value of the present police car. "At least we will have a reference price when we try to sell it."

The board also decided to pay $1,540 to Nameki Township for street repair work done during the previous fiscal year.

The work exceeded last year's budget, so it had to be held over for the new budget to take effect.

There also was a discussion on the possibility of the village assuming control of an unofficial roadway through church property out of the Quiet Valley subdivision.

Trustee Don Rea said the village's attorney and chert's attorney have been negotiating for the right-of-way, but lengthy negotiations have failed to reach agreement. He said the village attorney would be urged to try and speed up negotiations.

"That roadway is an important emergency exit from the subdivision," Rea said.

$52,850 raised in marathon

The St. Louis Symphony Society has announced that its first radio music marathon, sponsored jointly with KFUD, was a success — earning in excess of $52,850 for the Symphony and surpassing its goal of $50,000. Orders still being taken for premiums have not been added to this figure.

Broadcast over station KFUD, the marathon began Friday morning and ran continuously into Sunday.

The event, sponsored by the Women's Association of the St. Louis Symphony Society, was the first fund-raising venture of its type here. All proceeds came from the sale of premiums donated by merchants and celebrities.

Mitch Miller and Bob Conrad hosted the program. The Women's Association are so encouraged by the results that plans are being made for next year's marathon.

to get into the place and they were trying to keep me out," he testified.

He said he recalled being grabbed from behind and that he put anti-abortion pamphlets in front of a young woman patient's face.

The priest also testified having visited the clinic in December, being asked to leave and said that after a while he did leave.

He returned Jan. 19, and admitted he "did disrupt things somewhat."

The prosecution opening statement was presented at 10:30 a.m. Wednesday by Deputy State's Attorney Casper Nighobossian, who told the jury the important element in the case is the isolation of the priest's alleged disorderly conduct from all other factors.

"This is a simple disorderly conduct case. Nothing more. There may be outside issues, but we are trying only whether the priest acted properly or not, or not the crime of disorderly conduct was committed," Nighobossian said.

He stated the state "must show that Father Arensen knowingly acted in such a disorderly manner as to alarm others, thereby committing a breach of the peace." He said he intended to present three police officers and two Hope Clinic employees to testify what occurred.

"That is the only thing for you to consider," he stressed. "We feel after our evidence is presented, we have established a prima facie case, and a reasonable doubt exists if he committed disorderly conduct and we will try this one issue," he concluded.

Defense Attorney Richard Allen, who was appointed by the Public Defender's Office to represent Rev. Arensen, reserved his opening statement until the prosecution concluded its case.

His first witness called was Elaine Henry of Godfrey, a medical secretary and receptionist at the Hope Clinic, who testified she was involved in a confrontation with Rev. Arensen at the entrance to Tri-City Obstetrics and Gynecology, Ltd., which adjoins the Hope Clinic.

She testified she received a six-inch bruise to her left thigh she felt was incurred when she was struck with the office door by Rev. Arensen struggling with her to gain entry to the office.

She said the disturbance began about 9:15 a.m. Jan. 19, with Rev. Arensen pounding on the door from the front of the Hope Clinic, 21st and Iowa streets, while she was inside.

She testified her supervisor told her to go to the door of the adjoining office at 2050 Iowa St., and admit only patients who had appointments to either the Tri-City office or the Hope Clinic.

She also testified she was told not to admit the priest because he allegedly had become loud and argued with employees during a visit to the clinic about three weeks earlier, Elaine Henry told the court.

Rev. Arensen asked her if he could come in the clinic at 2050 Iowa St., but she refused him entry, she said. She related that Rev. Arensen said to her, "You were very nice to me before, but now please let me in."

She testified and said she shook her head no.

The testimony indicated she and the priest talked about five minutes until a young woman with an appointment to the office asked to be allowed to enter.

"Rev. Arensen grabbed her and was trying to keep her out of the building. He had papers with him and was showing them to her, saying, 'This is what you are going to do to your baby,' and the woman said, 'Stop. Let me go,' the witness said.

After what she believed was about two minutes of scuffling, police arrived and she and another employee managed to get the woman client inside the building as the priest gained entry to the foyer between the exterior and interior doors, she related.

"A policeman was trying to talk him into leaving peacefully and not entering the building," she testified. Elaine Henry also testified the priest continued to scuffle attempting to enter the office and the priest shoved Linda Todoroff, another employee, into her, trying to get the interior door open.

"I pushed back on her to keep the door from being opened," the witness said.

She said there were other protesters and pickets around at the time, but none of them joined the confrontation.

Nighobossian asked her if the priest was the only person not attempting to keep anyone from entering, but was attempting to enter the public building himself and was being kept out by employees.

He testified a portion of the physical contact in the foyer was the result of several persons crowded in the narrow area. After Allen's 13 minute closing argument, Nighobossian took nine minutes to recap the state's case and urged the jury, once again, to consider only the question whether the priest committed disorderly conduct.

Associate Judge Thomas Gibbons gave instructions to the jury, reviewing legal points involved in the charge and affecting the deliberations. The jury was excused for deliberations at 10:30 a.m. today.

Red Cross CPR training course

The first of two Cardio-Pulmonary Resuscitation (CPR) sessions will take place Saturday from 10 a.m. until 2:30 p.m. at the Granite City Civil Defense Building, 1411 Nineteenth St.

The second class is scheduled for the following Saturday, Feb. 25, at the same location and time. Most CPR courses are taught in the evening hours and the new class was arranged in the daytime to afford those unable to participate at night an opportunity to attend.

Mrs. Maxine Dunham, Red Cross training chairman, said information concerning enrolling in the free class may be obtained by calling Mrs. Dunham, at 931-2714, or the Tri-City Red Cross office, at 451-1184.

THEFT FROM AUTO

A tool box containing mechanic's tools, a $74 electric air compressor and a $15 shirt were stolen from the auto of Harry Hill, 1310 Twenty-second St., parked at 23rd Street and Grand Avenue, between 11:10 p.m. and midnight Tuesday. It could not be determined how entry had been gained to the locked car.

Sgt. Leonard Svoboda testified on the accuracy of his police report prepared after the theft. Svoboda said he was called to aid Polivick and agreed with Polivick's report on the incident.

Also supporting the police observations was Capt. Harry Mitchell, who was the last officer to arrive on the scene. Mitchell aided in the arrest.

Two pro-life demonstrators who witnessed Rev. Arensen's arrest also testified for the defense Wednesday afternoon, relating what they saw of the priest's attempts to enter the clinic and resistance from clinic employees.

Sue Gasparovic of Granite City, and Sandy Cimaco of Belleville, pro-life demonstrators at the clinic when the priest was arrested, said they did not see Rev. Arensen hold anyone or said the direct confrontations took place only in the foyer and not outside.

Rev. Arensen's testimony followed from 4:30 p.m. to 5:15 p.m. Wednesday and the trial was adjourned for the closing arguments today.

During a recess in the trial, Rev. Arensen told reporters he plans to continue his defense and hopes he will end up in jail to gain national publicity for the pro-life cause.

The maximum penalty could be a $500 fine and 30 days in jail, if he is found guilty of disorderly conduct.

He pledged that, if acquitted or if there is a hung jury, he will return to the clinic in the near future. "If I am convicted, I will return after I get out of jail," he stated.

He said he hopes to convince would-be mothers at the clinic to keep their babies and reduce business at the clinic to the point it has to go out of business. If successful, he then would try to close other clinics across the country, he said. He also said he hopes he can generate enough public support against abortion to have a pro-life amendment adopted to the U.S. Constitution or to force the U.S. Supreme Court to reverse its decision.

In his closing arguments, Nighobossian stressed the premeditated nature of the incident, recalling testimony that Rev. Arensen had planned the event five years and had notified news media representatives in advance of its timing.

He urged the jury to consider only whether the priest had acted in a disorderly manner, and to ignore the abortion and religious aspects of the matter.

After Nighobossian's 11 minute statement, the Rev. Donald Rau of the St. Louis Archdiocese, who has been

Madison Federal deposits up $4.9 million during 1977

Strong savings gains and a high level of mortgage lending activity characterized operations of Madison County Federal Savings and Loan Association during 1977, according to A. H. Froemling, president of the association.

In a review of 1977 results, Froemling said that savings deposits increased by more than $4,900,000 during 1977 and that total lending increased by $4,330,927.

He said as a result of the growth of savings deposits and mortgage loans, total assets at the end of the year amounted to $36,139,702.

Froemling said that the past year was one of tremendous activity in the residential real estate market and that the recovery in home building had been the main source of strength in the American economy.

The following directors were re-elected at the annual meeting of shareholders: Dr. Kenneth J. Hillmer, Ernest L. Hopkins, Raymond F. Kotzelek, John L. Palchiff, William C. Rainford, John W. Reese, Gilbert Rosch and Albert H. Froemling. Robert B. Dunlap retired from the board after more than 30 years service as a director and was replaced by the election of his son Thomas Dunlap as a director.

Officers elected for the year 1978 were: A. H. Froemling, president; J. L. Winning, vice-president; C. P. Specking, president; Paul F. Sodko, secretary-treasurer; Marilyn C. Harris, assistant secretary; Joyce N. Corey, assistant secretary; and Barbara A. Holshouser, assistant secretary.

Looking ahead to 1978, Froemling predicted that the coming year will be a good year, although savings gains are expected to be somewhat smaller than in 1977.

"This may mean some tightening in the supply of mortgage funds," he said. "At the same time, the demand for mortgage funds will continue to be strong; quite clearly, most American families are convinced that a home represents the best 'hedge' against inflation."

Froemling said that the association was entering 1978 in a strong financial position. He noted that after interest payments to savers, operating expenses and taxes, the association added $118,000 to reserves in 1977, and the reserves and undivided profits now total $1,649,953.

Bank rejects loan to sanitary district

An effort by the Metro-East Sanitary District to seek $600,000 worth of tax anticipation warrants to an East St. Louis bank has been unsuccessful because of court litigation over the status of one membership on the five-man district board, it was reported today.

As a result, district finances and means of meeting its payrolls will be the main topic of discussion at a board meeting to be held in Granite City at 4:30 p.m. Friday.

The district has had difficulty in meeting payrolls and operating expenses during the past couple of months and was depending upon the sale of anticipation warrants to tide the district over until tax collections begin later this year.

It was reported today, however, that John Sprague of Belleville, an attorney for the sanitary district, has informed board trustees that he had talked with an East St. Louis bank that has handled district transactions and was told the bank will not buy the tax warrants so long as the litigation remains in the court.

The legal problem involves the board seat of Robert Arensen, an East St. Louis bank member whose term expired last November. Because of a change in assessed valuations, Madison County was allowed under the law to appoint a Madison County board member to replace Eastern.

In December the Madison County Board confirmed the appointment by Board Chairman Nelson Hagnauer of Walter "Shang" Greathouse of Granite City as a member of the sanitary district.

Eastern, however, filed suit in circuit court at Belleville, challenging the law under which the appointment was made, as unconstitutional.

In a recent ruling, Associate Judge Richard Goldenherb held in Eastern's favor and enjoined the district from seeking Greathouse.

Madison County plans to appeal the ruling, a factor that will leave the status of the membership in question until a higher court ruling.

FACES WEAPONS CHARGE

Jimmy D. VanVleet, 19, of 1222 Edwardsville Road, was charged with unlawful use of a weapon after police alleged finding a loaded sawed-off shotgun under the front seat of his car in the 3100 block of Rodger Ave., at 5:20 p.m. Wednesday. It also is alleged he had a can of mace chemical in his left front trouser pocket.

Is the IHSA investigating Ron Salmond?

RON SALMOND in his Venice days.

By PETE HAYES
Press-Record Sports Editor
VENICE—The Illinois High School Association (IHSA) is supposedly looking into charges that Ron Salmond, a star basketball player at Lovejoy (Brooklyn) High School, is not eligible for play in the upcoming Class A (750 enrollment or less) regional tournament.

The problem stems from the fact that up until Oct. 27, according to Venice coach Ken Perkins, Salmond was enrolled at Venice High School.

He had played for the Red Devils the previous three years and had made plans to go out for the squad this season.

According to Perkins, Salmond—whose brother Ricky is a member of the Venice team this year—came out and did some pre-season running with the team on Oct.

27. "The next day, he was enrolled at Lovejoy," said Perkins.

The reason the word "supposedly" is used is that the IHSA isn't saying whether or not it is making an investigation.

"We really can't comment on it either way," said Jim Flynn of the IHSA in Bloomington. "It's the association's policy never to comment on matters such as this until something happens either way."

PERKINS said he hopes the IHSA "makes some kind of a ruling so that we know how to prepare for the upcoming regional."

Venice is scheduled to play Lovejoy next Tuesday night, Feb. 21, in the first round of the Dupo regional tournament.

According to the IHSA bylaws, a signed affidavit saying that a player resides with his parents after such a transfer is required.

Perkins said that Salmond's mother resides within the Lovejoy school district and that he (Ron Salmond) said he moved in with her.

Both Ron and his brother, Ricky, resided the past few years with their grandparents. The grandparents live in Eagle Park, which is within the Venice school district. Ricky still lives at Eagle Park.

"I just want the IHSA to make some kind of decision," said Perkins. "I called Dupo's athletic department last week and they told me they had called the IHSA to see what was going on."

"The association told them that they were handling it," D U P O A T H L E T I C D I R E C T O R Jerry Germain told the Press-Record yesterday that the principal at Dupo, Bill Reynolds, called IHSA officials last week and was told that "Mr. Fitzhugh (IHSA Executive Secretary Harry) was aware of the situation and it was being handled."

"I took that to mean that there is some kind of investigation going," said Germain. "But it's hard to say. They were sort of tight-lipped about the whole thing."

According to some reports that Perkins has gotten, Salmond has never really moved from the Venice district. "I'm not sure whether or not he has moved," said Perkins. "If he hasn't... then that really throws the whole thing upside down."

Germain said that if a ruling isn't made by tomorrow, Dupo will call the IHSA again to see if any more findings have been made.

"I want this to be cleared up," said Germain. "Since the regional is being held at our place, I want it to be done on the up-and-up."

Each school entered in a Class A regional was required to send in an eligibility sheet signed by the school's principal, listing all players from that school who will be eligible to play on the basketball team in the regional. Those sheets were due into the host school's offices by last Monday, Feb. 13. As of yesterday, Feb. 15, Dupo High had received no such sheet from Lovejoy's office.

PERKINS SAID he doesn't really care either way... just that he would like some kind of a ruling soon.

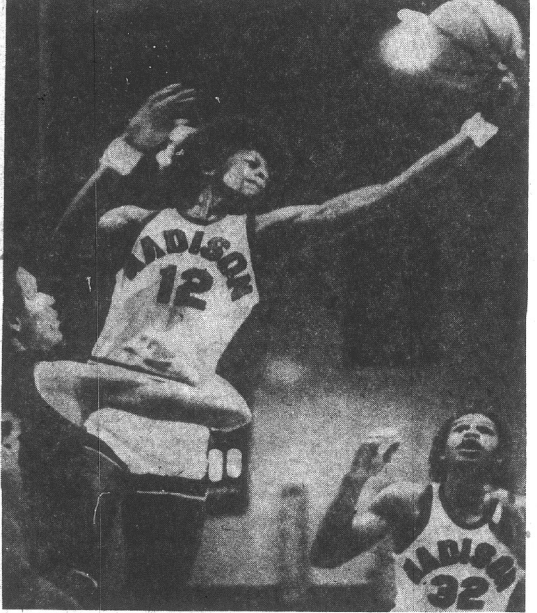

"If he's eligible, I want him to play. If not, I don't think it's fair to the other guys especially, Ricky," Ron Salmond has been averaging nearly 20 points a game for Lovejoy while his brother Ricky has been leading the Devils in scoring all season. Losing Ron would severely damage any hopes that Lovejoy has of winning the regional championship.

One way or another, a quick ruling from the IHSA is necessary if it is to affect the outcome of Tuesday's game.

Madison notches 20th win by crushing Northwest, 89-66

By PETE HAYES
Press-Record Sports Editor
MADISON—You'd have thought that Madison's basketball Trojans had just broken a 25-game losing streak by the reaction of their coach Larry Graham after Tuesday night's 89-66 win over Northwest High of St. Louis.

"Gee, it feels good to win again," he said. "This really does a lot to bolster our confidence going into the regional tournament next week."

Graham's squad had just used a balanced scoring attack enroute to its twentieth victory of the year against three losses.

The win came on the heels of the Trojans' dropping out of the number spot in state rankings among Class A (750 enrollment or less) school in Illinois. Madison is now tied for second with Nashville, a team the Trojans beat earlier this season.

MADISON broke out to a quick 8-0 lead after just 30 seconds of the first period, using back-door plays by James Heard and Tim Colston and steals of in-bounds passes by Heard and Anthony King which resulted in buckets.

The Trojans grabbed a 26-11 lead at the end of the period and increased it to 30-13 with just one minute having gone by in the second quarter, mostly with either Colston or King getting loose from the defense and being spotted standing alone under the basket.

"We were back-dooring them quite a bit early," said Graham. "I thought we really got off to one of our best starts of the season."

WITH SIX MINUTES remaining in the second period, Graham began filtering some bench players into the Trojans' lineup. It might have been too soon.

Northwest's Blue Devils, behind the hot shooting of guard Ken Kelp and some Madison turnovers, managed to creep back within three points, 31-15 remaining in the half when Kelp hit a driving layup to make the score 36-27.

Graham then began filtering those bench players right back out of the game and soon his squad had a commanding lead once more. MISS led at halftime 43-26.

TURNOVERS were something that Graham felt proved to be instrumental in his team's win.

"Our press, combined with the fact that they (Northwest) didn't have anyone who could move the ball caused a lot of turnovers. That's what got us off to our fast start and seemed to give us a boost whenever they got close."

Turnovers were a big part of the game. Northwest committed a total of 34 miscues. Madison made 24.

The biggest lead for the Trojans came at the 4:13 mark of the final stanza and Anthony King made a driving layup to make the score 74-47. He then hampered the Devils' Steve Baily as he was trying to make the inbounds play.

Baily couldn't get the ball in within the five seconds allowed and it went over to Madison. King scored from 10 feet to make it 76-47.

Baily again failed to get the ball inbounds in five seconds and Madison again capitalized on the turnover, King feeding the ball off to Colston, who scored to make it 78-47.

"The St. Louis schools don't see a whole lot of presses like ours," said Graham. "They try and rush right by the defense. If you can stop that first thrust of theirs, you've got a pretty good chance of shutting them down."

THE TROJANS will close out their regular season tomorrow night at home against Granite City South.

Graham isn't taking the Warriors too lightly, despite their 12-3 record.

"I'm really worried," he said. "They (South) have a really fine team. Terry Angle is as good as they come when he gets hot."

I saw them against Cahokia last week and they have the people to handle our press. They know how to attack it. It seems that Granite City players always play well against us."

Steelers fall to Althoff for the third time this season, 66-51

South vs. Flyers tonight; take on Madison tomorrow

GRANITE CITY—It's out of the trying pan and into the fire for the Granite City South basketball Warriors tonight.

They face the East St. Louis Flyers in an 8 o'clock game at Memorial Gym in Granite City. A junior varsity game is set for 6:30 p.m.

The Flyers are one of only two teams (Herrin is the other) which owns a victory over Collinsville, a team which destroyed South last Friday, 82-43.

The reason for the unusual Thursday night game is the South sectional wrestling tournament which will be held Friday and Saturday nights at Memorial Gym.

After facing East St. Louis tonight, the Warriors will travel Friday night to Madison for a battle with the Trojans, holders of a 20-3 record and second place ranking in the state among Class A (750 enrollment or less) schools in two recent polls.

North's Steelers are idle this weekend after dropping a two-point heartbreaker to Belleville Althoff Tuesday night.

The only other Quad City basketball team in action this weekend will be Venice's Red Devils.

Ken Perkins' team, fresh from an overwhelming (96-40) win over St. Henry Prep of Belleville Tuesday, will travel to St. Charles West tomorrow night to wind up the season before starting regional action next Tuesday night against Lovejoy (Brooklyn).

The varsity game Friday is set for 8 p.m., to be preceded by a junior varsity contest at 6:30 p.m.

North, after playing catch-up all game, tied the score at 45-45 with 4:29 remaining, courtesy of Dennis Page and his free throw ability. Page was three for three from the line.

The Steelers' Rick Willard broke the tie with two charity tosses. Twenty seconds later, Steve Hanger tied the score with two of his own tosses from the line.

A Valentine's Day Game—a game of Sweethearts, well, a game of arch rivals. It was the third time this year that North met Belleville Althoff (twice on the schedule and once in the Belleville East tournament).

North lost all three of the close encounters. The first was the worst as North lost by 15 points, 66-51. A week later, North caught Althoff in the East tourney and lost by only two points, 40-38.

On Tuesday night last, for the second time by only a two-point margin, 51-49 in a contest on the Steeler hardwood.

fifth personal foul of the game. David Bone of Althoff took the game out of the deadlock for the final time, with 59 seconds left to go.

Bone was fouled by Vandergriff when chasing after a loose ball, and Bone cashed in two free throws.

Page, from 20 feet out, put up a shot which the fans counted but the referees didn't as it went in and out.

With four seconds left in the game, North had the ball out of bounds. Coach Bill Ohendorf called a timeout to discuss the game plan of the Steelers.

"We were going to try to get the ball to the top of the key or closer before shooting," said Ohendorf.

The play did not work out, as Bob Baley put up a half-court shot. The shot went wide and the Althoff fans went wild as their team won, 51-49.

North found itself down, right from the start. Hanger struck first from five feet out with seven minutes to play in the opening quarter.

North was down by four points going into the second quarter, 16-12.

After Althoff scored on a layup in the second period, North made six straight points to tie the score for the first time. Willard scored two of the six and Page accounted for the other four points.

But Althoff led after two periods, 34-26.

In the third quarter, North brought the deficit down to five points. Page scored six of the ten points that North scored, making the score 41-36.

Althoff tallied four points before North could score any in the final quarter, to bring the score to 45-36. But the Steelers made nine straight points to tie the score at 45.

Four minutes and 25 seconds later (0:04), North had its last chance to even the score.

Vandergriff brought the ball in from out of bounds to Baley, who put up his mid-court shot.

"Bradley Gauen has been playing fine basketball, but he got into foul trouble. Randy Vandergriff did a fine job—he worked hard out there," said Coach Ohendorf.

"We are pleased with our efforts, but, again, no cigar when you lose."

South Sectional begins Friday

GRANITE CITY—The Granite City South sectional wrestling tournament is set to get under way tomorrow (Friday), with the first round to start at 7 p.m.

Teams represented by wrestlers are Belleville Althoff (2 wrestlers), Belleville East (4), Belleville West (7), Cahokia (3), East St. Louis (3), East St. Louis Lincoln (2), Mascoutah (3).

Benton (1), Carbondale (4), Centralia (7), Herrin (2), Marion (1), Mt. Carmel (2), Murphysboro (5), West Frankfort (2).

Hillsboro (1), Jerseyville (1), Lincoln (7), Quincy (3), Springfield, Lanphier (6), Springfield South (2) and Springfield High (4).

Representatives from the Edwardsville District at the local sectional will be from Granite City South (10), Granite City North (3), Roxana (8), Collinsville (2) and Wood River (1).

The 96 total eight in each of the 12 weight classes.

The top three finishers from each weight division will advance to the state wrestling Class AA (751 enrollment or more) tournament next Friday and Saturday (Feb. 24 and 25) at the Assembly Hall in Champaign.

THE PAIRINGS for the first round, involving Granite City wrestlers will start at the 96-pound level when Gerald Miller of Belleville West is the first bout. Miller has a 21-10 record and is a freshman.

At the 105-pound level, South's Rocky Lupardus will meet Kurt Fischer of Cahokia in the first round. Fischer, a senior, will face Jim Roberts of Hillsboro. Junior Lupardus' record is 18-5-2. Sophomore Roberts' record is 12-1-1.

The 112-pound class has even more of a Granite City look to it than does the 105 division. It features three wrestlers who saw action wearing Granite City uniforms this season, even though only two are listed as Granite Cityans in the program.

BRET SMITH, who racked up an unbeaten record as a member of Granite City last semester break, transferred to West Frankfort High School, where he continued his unbeaten string and qualified for the sectional. He will face Greg Lewis of Springfield High School in the first round. Smith's record now stands at 24-0.

The winner of that bout will most likely face North's undefeated (25-0) Kris Whelan in the second round.

Whelan wrestled at 119 pounds during the regular season but dropped back down to 112 pounds for the post-season tournaments. He will wrestle Pat Bass of Cahokia in the first round.

South's Scott Clement (25-5-1) will face David Scott of Quincy in the first round at 112. (Both Clement and Whelan are seniors.)

South's Wally Desbon (24-5) is the only Granite City representative at 119 pounds. He will face Jim Phillips of Granite City banner in the 126-pound division. He faces Rich Hill of Belleville East in the first round.

At 132 pounds, freshman Dean Perkins (25-4-2) of South will face Carbondale's Glen Crismon (19-8) in the first round.

Sam Perkins of South, a junior, will face East St. Louis' John Glenn in the first round of the 138-pound class. Perkins' record is 25-2-2.

At 145, Senior Darrell Hasty of South will face Belleville West's Jeff Arnold in the first round. Hasty stands at 24-2 on the season.

Warrior senior grappler Mike Forshee (19-8-1) will wrestle in the 155-pound division. His first-round opponent will be Steve Acup of Lincoln (Ill.) High School.

Sophomore Scott Polson of South will face John Lovette of Centralia in the first round of the 167-pound bout. Polson's record is 14-8.

South's Mark Lempp, a senior, will be the final Granite City representative. He will face West Frankfort's Bob Gusenline in the first round at 185 pounds. Lempp stands at 19-6 for his season win-loss record.

There are no Granite Cityans involved in the heavyweight division.

The second round will start at 1 p.m. Saturday and the finals will start at 7 o'clock Saturday evening.

The Granite City Press-Record will have a reporter on hand to cover the action.

Devils bomb St. Henry, 86-40

VENICE—Behind the 20-point scoring outburst of Ricky Salmond, Venice's Red Devils gained their fourth victory of the season Tuesday night from Hapless St. Henry Prep of Belleville, 86-40. St. Henry is winless in 19 outings.

"Oh, sure, it feels good to win and to blow somebody out in the process," said Venice coach Ken Perkins. "But a win like this isn't too gratifying."

"My heart really goes out to St. Henry. They have a heck of a group of kids. It takes a lot to go out there night after night and give it all you've got, even though you know chances are you're going to get blown away."

It was the Red Devils' turn to blow the Eagles out Tuesday night. They did so in fine form, holding them to five points in each of the second and third quarters and to only nine points in the first stanza.

"I thought we did a real good job there in the first quarter, getting the lead and holding them down," said Perkins.

"Our defense was playing well, causing a lot of turnovers and then taking advantage of them," he added.

Most of Salmond's points came on fast breaks after the Devils' defense had stolen the ball.

In the third quarter, and his team already holding a commanding 40-14 lead, Perkins sent in his junior varsity to get a little playing time under varsity conditions.

"The jayvees did a real good job too," said Perkins. "That is, until the fourth quarter. They stopped playing defense and started playing street ball. But by then, we had such a big lead it didn't matter."

Venice and St. Henry each scored 21 points in the final period.

"I thought our fast break was looking good tonight," said Perkins. "But we could have used this game earlier in the season."

"Now, it really won't have a whole lot of an effect on us, since we have just one more game left before the regional starts next Tuesday."

The Red Devils are scheduled to travel to St. Charles West High School tomorrow night (7:30 p.m., varsity 8 p.m.) before playing Tuesday night, Feb. 21, in the Dupu regional against Lovejoy (Brooklyn).

The starting time for the regional game is 7 p.m.

North girls lose to Althoff; Warriorettes bombed by West

In their first home game of the season Tuesday night, the Granite City North girls basketball team was swamped by powerful Belleville Althoff, 79-58.

The Steelrettes trailed at the end of the first quarter 18-4 and at halftime 36-8... not exactly a high-powered performance.

One reason for the Steelrettes' off-night from the floor was that Cheryl Schottfeld, the squad's leading scorer, made only two out of six shots in the first period... the only two the Steelrettes got.

Schottfeld ended up with almost half of North's points, 10.

Hurt by Althoff's man-to-man defense, North's coach, Mike Schottfeld, said the team had only eight points in the third period and 12 in the final stanza.

The only time the score was close was when it was 2-2 early in the game. But Althoff's Pat O'Brian scored six straight unanswered points to put them up 8-2. It was a lead they would never give up.

Other scorers for North were Carol Lewey with 8, LeAnn Rainwater with 12, Mona Hehner with 13, Ripka 2, and Dawn Ford 2.

Althoff was led by Tracy Rowan with 30 points, Tina Truesdale with 15 and O'Brian added 10.

LAST NIGHT, South Warriorettes saw their record fall to an even 3-3 on the season when they lost a 60-34 decision to Belleville West on the road.

A tough man-to-man defense was again the story. The Warriorettes committed many first quarter turnovers and fell close to 10-0 in the first quarter.

With SLU still pouring on the pressure in the final minutes, SLU finally work up and won 34-27.

SLU couldn't penetrate SLU's tough defense until there were about eight minutes left in the first half. Then the Cougars got moving and finally passed SLU with 3:47 still on the clock when Kathy "Hero" Going sank two charity tosses.

She had a sharp first half, scoring 12 points. She added eight more in the second half and was higher scorer for SLU.

Freshman Norma Jones was a key factor in the victory over SLU, scoring 17 points and pulling down some key rebounds.

After taking the lead near the break, SLU ended the half seven points up, 24-17.

Nine minutes into the second half, SLU led SLU by 18 points.

However, the Billkins' offense turned it on again and closed the gap to three points with four minutes left in the contest.

behind at the end of the first stanza 27-4. They tried desperately to get back into the game but trailed at the halftime intermission 44-14 and at the end of the third period 58-26.

They outscored the Maroons 8-2 in the final period, but it was too little too late.

Kathy Becherer led the Warriorettes in scoring with 11 points. Mary Livingston added 10. Karla Knezevich had eight points followed by Laura Gabriel and Chris Boyd with two points each.

The next game for the Steelrettes is Monday night at home against Mascoutah. The Warriorettes also play Monday. They will host East St. Louis Senior. Both games are set for 6:30 p.m.

However, schools which presently have valid contracts for boys wrestling contests on the weekend prior to Nov. 20, 1978 (Friday Nov. 17, Saturday Nov. 18 and Sunday Nov. 19) will be allowed to honor such contracts for the 1978-79 (next school) year only.

The Billkins' top point-getter was Betty Betz with 12. SLU committed 22 fouls to SLU's 16. Other scorers for SLU were: Jim Johnson with 12, Jeff Johnson with 10, and Olivia Allen, two.

The recently-changed bylaw also stipulates that a member school shall not permit any wrestling team to participate in a contest prior to the date of its first varsity meet (dual, invitational, etc.). This stipulation applies beginning with the 1978-79 (next school) year season.

BOYS SOCCER

For the seventh time in seven years, the structuring of boys' soccer series has been revised.

The concept of earning a high-seeded position in the initial level of the statewide series based on the outcome of games played during the regular season was maintained.

But all school entering the statewide series will be assigned to a sub-sectional.

Only ten designated games which have won fewer games than it has lost. For example, 3-4-1, 2-4-4, etc.

But the following point evaluation will determine a school's total points:

1st	2nd	3rd	4th
Victory over	15	10	5
Tie with	10	5	0
Loss to	5	0	0

Smith's number at South is 877-1512.

'Gentleman' Jim

Long-time racing veteran trades his helmet in on a business suit

"GENTLEMAN" JIM MOUGHAN of Springfield has traded his racing helmet and uniform of 27 years for a business suit and necktie, symbolic of his upcoming venture as auto racing promoter for the 1978 season at Tri-City Speedway in Granite City.

"Having competed in all types of racing machines since the age of 20," Moughan says, "I believe I know what stock car drivers want and I plan to give each of them an opportunity to be an innovator in the sport, with the testing ground being the quarter-mile dirt oval of Tri-City each Saturday night starting on April 15."

Moughan, a long-time competitor in stock cars, sprints and midget auto racing throughout the Midwest, retired from active race car driving at the conclusion of the 1977 season and formed the Dirt Trackers Auto Racing Association, sanctioning body for events at Tri-City next season.

"I've spent most of my racing career on dirt track races," he said, "and believe me it is one of the most exciting types of auto racing there is."

And, his objective is not only to provide a driver with an economically feasible racing package, but to also continue Tri-City's reputation as being the finest speedway in the state."

Moughan explained his theory of presenting the sportsman class drivers with the ability to be equally competitive with each other and still be able to field a low-cost race car.

"The smaller track will necessitate close action racing, a driver will depend on his skills rather than on horsepower and high speed."

Noting that Mel Hempstead, owner of St. Charles Mo. Speedway, was among those present at the meeting, the "rookie" promoter clarified any thoughts with, "no, this association will not promote racing events at any other track."

But, by the same token we want to encourage drivers and cars from other area speedways to compete with us at Tri-City.

"THE SPORTSMAN CLASS will be comprised of any American-made automobile built from 1955 to 1967."

"All cars are required to operate with stock parts, with the exception of the engine."

"Regardless of the year and make of a race car, drivers will be allowed to install any engine that does not exceed 350 cubic inches."

"A 108-inch wheelbase is mandatory and eight-inch wide tires are required."

"Tri-City's racing program this season will include a model stock car competition along with the sportsman class each Saturday."

"But, we also have five sprint-car racing dates scheduled and two midget racing dates on tap," said Moughan. "I have hopes of adding to that schedule before the season gets underway."

"You know, I have discovered that auto racing is one of the few sports existing today where size and weight of the competitor is no handicap," he added. "Skill, along with a good racing machine, plays the most important part in winning."

Explaining his decision, and agreement with track owner Elvis Doolin, to utilize only the quarter-mile racing venue, Moughan said, "There won't be instances of a driver and car taking the lead on the first lap and running away from the field."

Brother Heidemann memorial

The Assumption High School Alumni Association is sponsoring a dinner as a memorial to the late Brother Henry Heidemann on Friday, Feb. 24, at 8 p.m. at the school.

Plans for this event were underway prior to his death last month. Consequently, the informal affair has turned into a memorial for the man whose name was synonymous with Assumption for over 40 years.

Bro. Henry began his long association with the school in 1937 at Central Catholic High School, Assumption's predecessor. Over the years, he dedicated himself to the interests of generations of East St. Louisans and won their respect through his teaching, coaching, artistic displays, and countless acts of help.

His deeds, many of them unnoticed at the time, are more clearly remembered now because of their absence, even in this brief time since his passing, school officials said.

A plaque will be installed in the gym foyer and a Memorial Scholarship Fund will be established. Proceeds from the dinner will be used for this fund.

Tickets for the dinner are $5 per person and can be obtained from Dick "Foz" Ryan, alumni president, or the AHS office, by calling 397-2796 between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m. Contributions towards the memorial fund from alumni and friends also are being accepted.

'Odd Couple' at South today

Members of the Granite City High School South faculty will present the play "The Odd Couple," at 7:30 p.m. today in the school auditorium and at 8 p.m. on Friday.

Tickets, available at the door, are $1.50 for adults and $1 for students.

The play is under the direction of Ronald E. Pennell, speech department chairman at South.

Among the South faculty in the play are: Carroll R. Chamness of the English department playing "Vinnie," Gary A. Wilbur of the math department as "Speed," Warren Lee Jones of the math department as "Roy," Walter I. Padgett, counselor, as "Oscar," Carol Ann Lichter, home economics, as "Gwendolyn," Sheryl K. Evans, counselor, as "Cecily" and William J. Smoltz of the art department as "Felix."

LIONS MOBILE HEARING SERVICE UNIT will give free hearing examinations in the Quad-Cities on Feb. 22, 23 and 24 as a public service. The free testing is being sponsored as a public service by the Pontoon Beach, Granite City and Madison Lions clubs.

Lions offer free hearing tests

The Lions Foundation mobile hearing service unit will be in the area to give free hearing impairment tests on Feb. 22, 23 and 24.

On Wednesday, Feb. 22, hearing tests will be given at the First Granite City National Bank parking lot at 20th Street and Edison Avenue from 9 a.m. until noon and from 1:30 p.m. until 4:30 p.m.

The Granite City Lions will be under the leadership of Otis Gosnel, project chairman, and Harley Davis, club president.

The Pontoon Beach Lions, assisted by the Pontoon Beach Lions Club, will host the unit on Thursday, Feb. 23, in the Gaslight Plaza Shopping Center at the Wholesale Carpet building, 4010 Pontoon Road, from 1 p.m. until 4 p.m. and 5:30 p.m. until 8:30 p.m.

Donald D. Patrick is project chairman and Richard G. McIntosh is president of the Pontoon Beach Lions.

On Friday, Feb. 24, the unit will be at the Madison Fire department, 1529 Third St., Madison, from 9 a.m. until noon and from 1:30 p.m. until 4:30 p.m. Al Hudzik is the project chairman and Emmett Pazia is the Madison Lions Club president.

Clinical hearing technicians will do the actual hearing screenings and evaluations.

No appointments are necessary for the screening. Up to six persons may be automatically screened at one time. It will take approximately ten minutes to screen each group.

Persons who fail the screening will be referred to local audiologists for complete audiological evaluation.

Individual hearing evaluations and hearing aid evaluations will be performed on the unit.

It will be recommended to any adult who fails the tests to be seen by a physician, preferably an ear specialist.

This is the first year that the Hearing Service Unit will be operating in Illinois. It is hoped by Lions officials that it will be as successful as the Glaucoma Mobile Unit, another Lions of Illinois project.

The Glaucoma Unit has screened more than 250,000 Illinois residents since it began in 1969 identifying over 1,400 people with glaucoma in various stages.

This is a rare opportunity for adults to learn about hearing loss and at the same time have their hearing checked, a Lions spokesman said.

Information about causes and effects, symptoms and treatments of hearing loss will be available on the unit.

Adults also may obtain a directory of audiologists, otologists and reputable hearing aid dealers.

The Lions of Illinois Foundation is a non-profit organization that relies on the contributions of local Lions Clubs, individuals, and businesses to finance various projects and programs for the visually and hearing impaired. The Foundation is recognized by the Internal Revenue Service as a tax exempt group. Foundation offices are located at 1515 North Harlem, Oak Park, Ill. 60302.

Exceptional deer season recorded

By ART SCHUMANN

Although a record 16,186 whitetail deer were reported taken during the Illinois gun season, authorities believe the final count will be higher.

The top deer producing area during the late gun season was Crab Orchard National Wildlife Refuge, where 639 whitetail deer were taken. The top producing counties were Joe Davies, 563; Hancock, 564; Adams, 568; Carroll, 448 and Williamson, 444.

Michigan also recorded an exceptional deer season. The kill is expected to exceed 102,000.

Success was exceptionally high in the northern counties of Michigan's lower peninsula. The upper peninsula, however, continued its downward spiral.

This year, only 13,500 deer were taken in the upper peninsula, 2,200 less than in 1976. Rough winters and lack of adequate browse conditions continue to reduce the herd.

Deer in the upper peninsula are also having to compete with the elk for what browse is available.

Few midwesterners realize elk exist in upper Michigan. Latest reports indicate a herd of 3,500 exists and is increasing at the rate of 400-500 a year.

The majority are located in the Pigeon River Forest in Osego County.

Elk tend to migrate with the seasons and take a heavy toll of the available browse. It appears controlled harvest may be necessary.

Perhaps Michigan will announce an elk season soon. In 1964, Michigan issued 288 elk licenses and 269 hunters shot elk.

Michigan also has one of the nation's finest deer herds and the outlook for 1978 should be outstanding.

The deer situation also appears better in Minnesota, where firearm deer hunters took 45,988 deer during the state's November season.

Records show 300,000 deer licenses were sold in Minnesota. A year ago, 284,000 firearm hunters registered 29,000 deer taken.

One Minnesota hunter shot a deer with a .17 caliber, high-powered rifle, then inserted an arrow into the carcass.

The deer had been taken in an area open to bow and arrow hunting only.

But a conscientious conservation officer detected the violation and arrested the hunter, who was fined $500 and received a 60-day suspended jail sentence.

The hunter's license was automatically revoked for three years and the deer and rifle were confiscated.

Without a doubt some of the finest deer hunting in the United States is available here in the Midwest. This is true whether the hunter works the Illinois countryside or drives 250 miles in any direction.

Biologists in Missouri, Kentucky, Indiana and Iowa indicate deer herds continue to multiply well.

Comparative scores in sports are a national pastime with most fans, but their validity are suspect at best in predicting a game's outcome.

It would seem, on the basis of those dubious comparative scores, that Coach Jim Dudley's Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville basketball team is about to break its horrendous eight-game losing streak Saturday night when the Cougars travel to Lebanon for a game with Harry Slattham's McKendree College Bearcats.

SUIE, now 9-13 after seven straight losses on the road, early in the season played Chicago's St. Xavier College right down to the wire in the Windy City before bowing, 94-90, as St. Xavier made good 26 of 32 free throws to just 6 of 9 for Dudley's charges.

Just a week ago, (Feb. 8), St. Xavier walloped McKendree, 112-46 on the Bearcats' floor. St. Xavier, also called the Cougars, made good on 18 of 23 free throws against McKendree.

Mike Walaszek killed both SUIE and McKendree. Against the Cougars Dec. 29 at Chicago, Walaszek poured in 34 points; against McKendree he was even more deadly as he racked up an amazing 46 points.

The little 5-foot-10" Xavier guard was "out of his mind" against the 'Cats as he hit on 19 of 29 shots from the floor and eight of 16 from the line.

In the SIUE game at Chicago, St. Xavier and SIUE battled to a 40-40 first-half tie as Walaszek hit on eight of 10 shots (all fairly far out on the court) in the first half. He ended up with 13 of 18, plus eight of nine from the charity line as he and his teammates made good 26 of 32 charity tosses (to SIUE's 6-of-9).

In the long-time series between SIUE and McKendree, starting with their first meeting during the '68-69 season, the Bearcats have a one-victory edge, 7-6.

Saturday's game for the Cougars will be a tough one since the McKendree gym is always packed with a noisy group of fans fortified with metal drums of deafening potential. The 'Cats always feel they are the "David" against the much larger SIUE "giant."

However, St. Xavier proved that a visiting team can win there if it has a magician like Mike Walaszek.

In Chicago, the Cougars' little guard, Neil Peebles, did in fact gun down Walaszek by two points, 36-34. Peebles had to hit 16 of 31 from the floor to do it as he was awarded only four charity (all made) shots.

Spurring on McKendree against the Cougars is the fact that the 'Cats still have a chance to receive a post-season NAIA regional tournament bid. Now 11-10, McKendree is still being remembered because of the toughness of the 'Cats' schedule.

On the other hand, if the Cougars win their three remaining games, that 12-13 record wouldn't appear good enough for a bid.

Here, again, though, the Cougars have played some extremely tough opponents such as NCAA division I Illinois State U., now ranked ninth in the big school poll; third-ranked (NAIA) Marymount College of Salinas, Kan., and seventh-ranked Quincy College in the same group.

Gary Haverman leads McKendree scorers with 17.5 points per game; just a shade back for the Bears is Mike Henry of Venice with a 17.41 clip.

It's a photo finish, too, for Cougar scorers: Neil Peebles and Bennie Lewis both are hitting at 18.5 points per game. Tipoff time Saturday at McKendree is 7:30 p.m.

SUBSTITUTE PLAYER for the Madison Police Department, Brad Crown, a 19-year-old police dispatcher, dumps in a field during practice for a game with the Granite City Police-Firemen All-Stars at noon Sunday in the new St. Mary's Parish Hall, 10th and Alton, Madison. Admission is free to the contest, billed as a warmup to the Officer Friendly basketball benefit game at 8 p.m. Tuesday, Feb. 28, in the Granite City Memorial Gym against the Big Red All Stars of the St. Louis football Cardinals.

Sunday, February 19, 1:00 p.m.: Cottonwood Bowl, North 69, Glen Carbon, Illinois.

Money raised in Quincy will go to the Adams County Heart Fund in Alton and Glen Carbon to the Madison County Unit - American Cancer Society.

The nationally famous Stroh Bowling Team has built an impressive record of singles and team championships since the team was founded in the early 1930's. Included in the six-man team's victories are the Detroit All-Star Classic, the Michigan State Classic and the A.B.C. Classic divisional title. The current squad includes: Harry Campbell, captain; Tom Vallone; Mike Toksy; Bob Hart; Bob Chamberlain and Dennis "Rocky" Graziani.

Sponsored by The Stroh Brewery Company, Detroit, the team appears as the key attraction at major fund-raising events in the communities served by Stroh wholesalers.

Basketball 'demolition derby' slated in Madison on Sunday

By VALERIE EVDEN
Press-Record Staff Writer

A friendly warmup game between two usually cooperative police departments just may turn into a crushing "demolition derby," if one listens to certain officers speaking "off the cuff" for their respective community forces.

The battle of words concerns a basketball contest, scheduled at noon Sunday at St. Mary's Parish Hall, Madison, stacking the Granite City Police-Firemen All Stars against the Madison Police Department. The game is a prelude to the Officer Friendly benefit basketball game set for Tuesday, Feb. 28, at 8 p.m. in Memorial Gymnasium at Granite City High School South, featuring the Granite City police-firemen's team and the Big Red All Stars of the St. Louis Football Cardinals.

Sunday's game at Madison is open to the public. Admission is free.

If neither squad can think up any reasons for changing the time and location again, the game will take place at 12 noon in the new St. Mary's Parish Hall, 10th Street and Alton Avenue. Previously, it was set for an hour later at the Madison High School.

ENTERS COURTROOM. The Reverend Edwin F. Arentsen, charged with one count of disorderly conduct, enters the courtroom area of the Third Judicial Circuit Court in the Granite City Hall Tuesday afternoon. The charge stems from an incident in front of the Hope Clinic for Women, Iowa and 21st Streets, on Jan. 19, when Rev. Arentsen tried to enter the clinic and talk with patients and staff members. The priest pleaded innocent and requested a jury trial. (Press-Record Photo)

Combination transit networks discussed

The East-West Gateway Coordinating Council explained proposed mass transit alternative programs Tuesday night at East St. Louis High School. It was a cozy, intimate discussion; only five people showed up to listen and question.

Dick Brown of the consulting firm which studied the situation and presented a revised analysis on Jan. 16, explained that Daniel, Mann, Johnson and Mendenhall did computer studies of three alternative plans.

System A would be essentially the present Bi-State Transit system modified by upgrading of equipment, addition of routes and adjustment of schedules. System B, labeled Freeway Bus by Brown, would utilize the upgraded existing system and in addition would go extensively into "park and ride" in which express buses would move on freeways. There would be consideration of cleared bus lanes for faster movement, but that does not seem indicated now.

System C, labeled "light rail," would utilize the upgraded existing system, but feature modern, diesel-electric cars on grade level tracks to move large numbers of people in high-density areas.

Capital cost of the three systems differs widely. System A would cost $191.6 million, system B $297.7 million, and system C $353.9 million.

Operating revenue per passenger would be almost identical but operating cost per passenger would be 89 cents in system A, $1.30 in system B and $1.25 in system C.

Brown said the capital cost of system C indicates it is not feasible in its entirety. Instead, four "composite" lesser variations are under consideration. They would require capital costs in the $200 million-$300 million range and operating costs of 92 to 97 cents per passenger, fairly close to the operating cost of system A.

Chief advantage of the light rail system over the freeway bus alternate is the frequency of stops.

Freeway buses could stop only a few places, at the far-spaced exits. Light rail would be on ordinary streets and could stop every three or four blocks. Its speed would be determined by the frequency of stops.

Electronic devices would enable the light rail cars to control traffic lights, keeping them green to cross the intersecting streets.

Chief disadvantage of the light rail system is the cost, both for track, rolling stock and operating cost. Gateway's study has been refined from a total systems level to an approach where projects taken from each alternative are combined into a transit network.

There are four project networks being considered, one of which is to be implemented as the metropolitan St. Louis area's public mass transportation system. The longest rail line being considered is the East St. Louis-Clayton rail line, in addition to connecting Illinois and St. Louis, it would connect St. Louis University, the mid-town medical center, and Washington University before ending in downtown Clayton. The line starts on rail right-of-way near St. Clair Avenue and travels southwest to the downtown area and then across the Eads Bridge into downtown St. Louis.

The line continues west along Market Street in St. Louis onto the Forest Park Parkway and ends in Clayton.

Planned north-south rail lines connect with this line and offer travel throughout St. Louis County.

Three of the four networks being examined include this line, and the fourth includes no rail projects.

Freeway bus routes are included in all four networks. Lines planned for the area include:

Interstates 55-70. Beginning from north of the Collinsville area, the line runs along Interstate 55-70 and into downtown St. Louis.

Interstate 70. The line starts at a park-and-ride lot located on I-70 in the Edwardsville area and travels west on the highway into Missouri where it connects with the MacDonnell Douglas area and swings south into Clayton along the proposed Innerbelt.

Interstate 64. Beginning at a park-and-ride lot in Belleville, the line travels west into East St. Louis and continues into downtown St. Louis.

The freeway bus system includes a park and drive lot near I-70 and Route 157. There would be such a lot at 159 and 270.

The 70-55 freeway buses would go from Collinsville to Chesterfield, Mo.

Brown had statistics on everything, projected to 1985. System A would show 314,000 boardings a day by 253,400 passengers, involving 48 percent transfers.

System B would have 498,000 boardings a day, by 280,100 passengers, involving 78 percent transfers.

System C would have 471,000 boardings a day, by 306,700 passengers, involving 54 percent transfers.

Brown showed a map vividly emphasizing the travel capability of residents of various areas of the metropolitan region. The inner city was heavy in families with no car, and East St. Louis less so.

This has a direct bearing on the parts of the region where buses or light rail would gain ridership. Families with no autos show 3 trips a day, families with one auto 3 trips a day, and families with two autos 1 trip a day. John Cromwell of East-West

Gateway said the consultants are to make a recommendation to East-West Feb. 22.

John Foster of Gateway said the federal government finances up to 80 percent of capital cost.

Cromwell said Gateway had been working with the U.S. Urban Mass Transportation Administration and he felt its share could be secured.

Other financing of Bi-State Transit comes from a 1/2-cent sales tax for that purpose in St. Louis and St. Louis County, from State of Illinois legislative appropriations and from Bi-State operating revenues.

Bi-State Transit boardings declined to a low of $2,100,000 in 1973 and have been increasing since that time, to 65,324,700 in 1977.

Cromwell credits the increase mainly to improved service, little to the gasoline crisis.

The consultants estimate that 1985 passengers would total: System A, 61,738,000; System B, 67,572,000; System C, 74,180,000; existing 1977-45,442,700.

Annual revenue and revenue per passenger are forecast as: System A, $19.4 million, $.315 per passenger; System B, $21.2 million, $.314, existing (1977), $.132 million, $.29 per passenger.

The route boarding estimate maps show anticipated boardings on the Collinsville area segment of I-55-70 as 1,100, picking up to 2,100-2,400 at Route 157.

The systems would generate 1,000-1,200 passengers on Route 3 from Granite City south.

The System C sketch map shows 2,700 going west from Granite City to the I-70 link in St. Louis.

3 injured in two-car crash

A man and two women were injured in a two-car accident at Route 162 and Mockingbird Lane early this week.

A tall snow pile blocking vision of Route 162 from Mockingbird Lane was listed as a contributing factor to the accident.

Officers said the auto of Linda Gehebar, 143 Holiday Mobile Home Park, attempted to turn left from Mockingbird Lane onto Route 162 and collided with the auto of David Semozin, 26, Edwardsville, which was traveling on Route 162.

Semozin and Miss Sandra Siebert, 22, of 4000 Gaslight Walk, Apt. 4, a passenger in Semozin's auto, were taken to St. Elizabeth Hospital where Semozin was admitted for observation of head injuries and abrasions to his left knee. He was released Tuesday.

Miss Siebert was treated for a cut to her forehead and was released.

Linda Gehebar, who was ticketed for failure to yield the right-of-way, suffered minor injuries but did not require hospital treatment, according to authorities.

Final payment of $44,053 to G. H. Sternberg & Co. was authorized by the Venice City Council at its Tuesday evening meeting.

The payment was for the reconstruction of the east approach of the McKinley bridge. Total cost was approximately $475,000.

Venice pays off bridge repairs

A police report submitted by Chief Ralph D. Brawley for January showed 15 adult arrests and three juvenile arrests, with $370 in fines collected from the clerk of the Circuit Court.

The council was notified that the lease with the Union Electric Company on the Venice Boat ramp will expire April 29.

The council failed to renew a 50-year easement agreement for a Union Electric power line that runs over property near the river until the question of use of the boat dock area is settled.

The electric company indicated that the city is using more land than agreed at the 1977.

A meeting is to be arranged by Mayor William Ebersold and members of the council to resolve the differences of opinion.

An agreement was entered into with the Illinois Department of Transportation to maintain the lighting and traffic

A gold ring with a large ruby and a gold Buddha impression valued at $2,000 was stolen in a burglary at the home of Gilbert Dickey, 2912 Carl Ave., which was discovered last week.

Dickey said his wife went to the hospital to have a baby and he had to leave the sliding kitchen door open so his daughter could get into the house.

She discovered the door open and Dickey's stereo, television set and jewelry box outside the rear door. Only the $2,000 ring is known missing.

Alpha Eta honors 10

Recognition of members who have made "significant contributions as volunteers" in their communities highlighted the February meeting of Alpha Eta Chapter, Delta Kappa Gamma Society, International, held during the weekend.

A 10 o'clock brunch, served at the Stratford Hotel in Alton, was followed by the special program, entitled "Climb Every Mountain," presented by Dr. Mary Blanche Jordan, Personal Growth and Services chairman, and members of her committee.

The presentation included the recognition ceremony honoring Eva McDonald, Kathleen Burroughs, Wilma Schwarz, Ruth Pippins, Lucille Stevenson, Lois Welch, Rowena Lutz, Grace Monroe, Dorothy Rainey and Ila Lowery.

Dr. Jordan was introduced by Agnes Fryntko, program chairman.

A "sneak preview" of new Delta Kappa Gamma chapter songs was given by Ila Lowery, International Music chairman, and chapter music representative. She sang one song and involved the membership in three other selections.

Martha Moomaw, president, was in charge of the business session, with Mrs. Fryntko reviewing a meeting of the Madison County Coordinating Council she attended as Alpha Eta representative.

Jennie Raffaele read the names and credentials of prospective candidates to be considered for membership at the next meeting, and Marlene Barach conducted a self-appraisal inventory, emphasizing the professional and personal growth of members.

Mrs. Moomaw reminded the group of the Lambda (Illinois) state convention at the Continental Regency Hotel, Peoria, April 14-16, and the society's international convention, set July 23 to July 30 at the Conrad Hilton in Chicago.

Guests introduced at the meeting were Joan Seamen, candidate for state representative in the 56th Legislative District, and Janet Edwards, who assisted in the program. Serving as hostesses were Helen Barnard and Alberta Braden.

In addition to those named, other Granite City members attending were Elizabeth Briggs, Leigh Heller, Lucinda Huck, Anna Johnson, Kathy Kalchoff, Elsie Maylat, Pat Moore, Margaret Mulach, Vivian Raffaele, Linda McDonnell and Hazel Towery.

Mrs. Eftimoff guest at governor's mansion

Mrs. Vasil Eftimoff, 2800 Michigan Ave., was a luncheon guest of Mrs. James R. Thompson at the executive mansion in Springfield, Wednesday.

Two hundred women of leadership position from the state of Illinois were invited to attend the luncheon commemorating the 158th birthday of Susan B. Anthony, reformer and lecturer on temperance, slavery, and women's rights. Mrs. Eftimoff, in addition to doing volunteer work for many local charitable organizations and participating in a number of professional clubs, has served for 16 years on the Women's Board of the St. Louis Symphony. Currently, Mrs. Eftimoff has been appointed to the board of the STUE Rape Crises and Sexual Abuse Center which offers both counseling and supportive services to women in need.

Mrs. Eftimoff, an employee of the Granite City school system, is presently a full-time graduate student at Southern Illinois University, Edwardsville, studying education for gifted children.

MICHAEL WASYLENKO'S PARENTS OF 1ST CHILD
Mr. and Mrs. Michael R. Wasylko of Staunton, Ill., formerly of Granite City, are announcing the birth of their first child, a son, born Tuesday at St. Francis Hospital in Litchfield.

The infant weighed seven pounds, 15 ounces and has been named Michael Jon.

The mother will be remembered as Miss Theresa Moebly, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles T. Moebly, 2623 Iowa St. Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Moebly of Granite City and Mrs. Lela Garner of Jonesboro, Ill., are the maternal great-grandparents, and Mrs. Nellie Alger of Granite City is the maternal great-great-grandmother.

The paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Mike Wasylko of Mount Olive. Mrs. Mary Wasylko of Bend is the paternal great-grandmother.

Joan Seamen is honored at tea

Mr. and Mrs. Larry Davis, 3 Beta Court, entertained 45 guests at a tea Sunday afternoon in their home honoring Joan Seamen, a Democratic primary candidate for state representative in the 56th District.

During the social event, Mrs. Seamen discussed her views regarding education, labor, transportation, taxes and senior citizens.

Mrs. Seamen is a teacher in the Glen Carbon schools, is a Edwardsville City Council member and a precinct committee woman. Her husband, Roy Seamen has been a teacher at Stallings School in Granite City, for 16 years. They are the parents of two teen-age children.

A fund raising program is scheduled for Monday, Feb. 20, at the Three Mile House in Edwardsville, from 7 to 9 p.m., according to the candidates' husband.

Bethesda Temple services

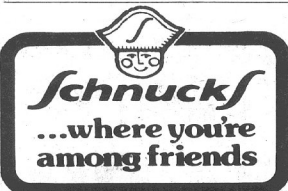

The Rev. Gene Adams from Centralia, Ill., an ordained minister with the Association of International Gospel Assemblies, Inc. in DeSoto, Mo., will be the guest speaker at the 7:30 p.m. Sunday at Bethesda Temple, 22nd and State streets, according to the host minister, the Rev. Charles Browning.

Rev. Adams has been in the ministry and evangelistic work since 1968 and is presently leader of the Fourth and Fifth Districts in Illinois for the Association.

He was the founder of the radio program, "The Spirit of Truth Broadcast" broadcast every Sunday over the Salem, Ill., radio station. The guest speaker also recorded an album with Crusade Records in Flora, Ill., entitled "Change of Heart."

Mrs. Rosella Mead named 1978 Queen of Hearts

The Women of the Moose, Chapter 247, hosted their annual Queen of Hearts ball during the weekend at the Moose Hall, 19th and Adams streets, to honor the 1978 queen, Mrs. Rosella Mead. Boyd Presley, governor of the lodge, and Pat Lipscomb, junior regent, escorted the queen and made into the ballroom to open the ceremonies attended by 200 members and guests. Mrs. Mead was then escorted to the honor station by her husband, Earl Mead. First maid Nancy Rogers was presented by her husband, Mike Rogers, and second maid Anna Kuzma was escorted by George Lipscomb, past governor of the lodge. Serving as honor escorts for the presentation were members of the College of Regents, Nancy Hamilton, Jean Teller, Marie Hampton, Iris Chastain, Margaret Houseman, Dorothy Coy, Edna Miller and Marian Lipscomb. Past queens who were introduced during the evening program included Doris Martin, Sue Goodman, Mildred Walker,

Norma Holmeyer, Jerry Speece, Iris Chastain and Lynn Fyatt. Throughout the ceremonial program the queen and maids carried traditional heart bouquets of red and white carnations. The retiring queen, Mrs. Speece, was escorted by her son, Charles Speece. Crown and trophy bearers were Mark Parker and Paula Buslor and serving as pages to the queen were Dawn and Laurie Mead. Refreshments were served after the ceremony and the remainder of the evening was spent in dancing.

Introduce grant award winner

Approximately 60 members of Beta Eta Chapter of The Delta Kappa Gamma Society International met during the weekend at Charlie's Restaurant, President Virginia Grant conducted the business session before the brunch.

Mrs. Nancy Barnett presented Miss Cathy Coldren of Edwardsville, who is the recipient of the group's yearly recruitment grant. Miss Coldren is a sophomore at SIUE, majoring in speech pathology.

Mrs. Valerie Stevens led the group in the singing of five timely songs with the theme of "I Hear America Singing."

Committee chairmen presenting brief reports were Mrs. Barnett, Mrs. Helen Purkale, Mrs. Catherine Howells and Miss Martha Masse. Serving as the hostess committee were Miss Nelle Hart and Mrs. Gladys Pape and Mrs. Viola Edwards, with Miss Cleo Ulin offering the invocation.

Other active and retired teachers from this area attending were Mesdames Mary Sue Harper, Esther Vasileff, Florence Van Haften, Nancy Rainer, Barbara Williams, Ruth McCarty, Catherine Hildebrand, Martha Hayes, Jean Hall, Georgia Eneke, Sandra DeMoulin, Irene Cook and Misses Joanne Higgins and Anna Marie Harn, and a guest, Mrs. Coldren.

Special film at Lake PTA meet

A film entitled "A Taste of Blackberries" will be shown Tuesday, Feb. 21, following the monthly meeting of the Lake School Parent-Teacher Association, which will begin at 7:30 p.m.

This film, which will be shown by Randall Irwin, a local funeral director, deals with children and their understanding of death. It is a film which can be viewed by children, as well as adults, and is being highly recommended by the executive board of Lake's PTA, according to David Johnson, president.

Following the film, Irwin will be available for a question-and-answer session and will have pamphlets entitled "Should Children Know About Death?" for the adults and story coloring books, dealing with a child and the loss of his grandfather, for the children, the president added.

Refreshments will be served following the film.

Beta Sigma Phi Sorority Valentine ball Saturday

Beta Sigma Phi Sorority City Council will honor four chapter candidates for queen at its annual Valentine ball, Saturday night at the Elks Club. Music for dancing will be provided by "The Seasons" and tickets costing $2.50 in advance and $3, at the door are still available, according to council officers.

Each chapter selected a representative to reign as queen over the annual social event, at individual meetings. Mrs. May Ebling was chosen by members of Preceptor Beta Sigma Chapter as their candidate. She has served as recording secretary, extension officer, treasurer, chairman of the ways and means committee and on the social committee.

Her husband Gene is a custodian in the Granite City School District. They are the parents of two children and also have grandchildren.

Mrs. Ebling attended the East St. Louis Academy of Beauty Culture and is interested in ceramics as a hobby. She is a member of the Bowland Belles bowling team, the Bunko-Bites Club and the Tuesday Night Pinochle Club.

Mrs. Leoma Macek will represent the Nu Zeta Chapter who also elected her as extension officer, service committee member, for the group.

Mrs. Macek and her husband, Don who is an assistant superintendent for Laclede Steel in Alton, are the parents of three children. She is interested in tennis, bicycling, gardening, and CUB SCOUT EXHIBIT which will be featured at the Cub Scout Theme Fair for 1978, at St. Margaret Mary School, 1900 St. Clair Ave., on Feb. 25, from 2 to 4 p.m. Twelve packs will participate in the fair under the direction of Mrs. Gertrude Luebner, chairman of the afternoon project, which is open to the public, parents of scouts, den and pack leaders and anyone interested in the cub scouting program.

GIFT RECIPIENT, Arthur Menendez, principal at Mitchell School, admiring the desk lamp presented to him by the school staff in relation to School Principal's Week. Presenting the gift were from left, Martha Katzman, secretary, Loris Boyer, cafeteria, Pat Kibikas, teacher and Virgil Morley, custodian.

Staff fetes Mitchell principal

Arthur E. Menendez, principal of Mitchell School, was presented with a desk lamp from members of the school staff last week in conjunction with School Principal's Week, designated Feb. 7 to 14. He has served as school principal at Mitchell for 12 years, following Harold E. Briggs and Clyde W. Lee. The principal was also honored at the monthly PTA meeting which featured a program entitled, "Alice in Wonderland," presented by Laura Beth Wittkamp's fifth grade language arts class.

Taking part in the presentation were Kathy Hutchings, Tad Garrell, Jane Hicks, Pam Nolan, Denise Moss, Julie Jones, Chana Bishop, Leslie Tindall, Melissa Dickie, Cathey Clotfelter, Michelle Thompson, Cindy Allen, Darla Kingsley, Bryce Moore, Darin Clutts, Sharon Williams, Steve Jacobs, Stacey Thomason and Debbie Brandt. Refreshments were served by the second grade room mothers and the parent attendance award went to Mrs. Wittkamp's room.

Mrs. Ruth Moser presents program a program entitled "Love" was given by Mrs. Ruth Moser, in keeping with the Valentine meeting of the Christian Homemakers Class of Calvary Baptist Church, Tuesday evening. Mrs. Shirley Warster, 3256 Wabash Ave., entertained the group in her home with opening prayer offered by Mrs. Thelma Dutton. Games were directed by the hostess and prizes were won by Mrs. Dutton and Mrs. Ruth Dagon. The hostess served refreshments from a table decorated in a Valentine theme. Those attending were Carol Hopper, Dorothy Watkins, and Pauline Weir, class teacher. Members will deliver plans to patients at the Colonades Nursing Home prior to the March 14 meeting which will be hosted by Mrs. Pauline Hall, 4865 Warnock Ave., it was announced.

Fidelity Class plans suppers

Plans for "Supper Parties with Jesus" was the main topic of discussion at a business meeting of the Fidelity Class of Nameoki United Methodist Church held during the weekend. The group gathered at the church and finalized plans to meet each Wednesday night in March for the supper parties. Different classes will be responsible for Bible readings, songs, dramatic presentations and talk on scripture verses during the monthly sessions. Members agreed to meet, on March 1, for the initial segment following the subject of "Supper with Outcasts" and on March 8 for "Supper Reveals a Sinners Love." March 15 the topic will be "Supper To Satisfy Thousands," and March 22 for "Supper With Sisters." The class also discussed the forthcoming stewardship campaign and the arrival of the Rev. William J. Erwin, who will lead the project. Hosts for the evening were Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Wallace and Mr. and Mrs. Louis Rains. Others present were Mr. and Mrs. Pete Berta, Mr. and Mrs. Homer Blumenstock, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Carroll, Mr. and Mrs. George Chapman, Mr. and Mrs. Milton Haley, Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Rod Key, the Rev. and Mrs. Max Martin, Mr. and Mrs. Beryl Russell, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Stewart and Mrs. Vivian Wolfe.

REV. JOSE SANTIAGO
From Ecuador

Missionary to speak at Mitchell

The Rev. Jose Santiago, an Assemblies of God missionary to Ecuador, South America, will be the guest speaker at 7 p.m. Sunday at the Mitchell Assemblies of God Church, located on West Chain of Rocks Road, across from Sunny Shores Trailer Park.

The public is invited to attend the rally, the Rev. E. L. Aubuchon, pastor, said today. Everyone is welcome, he added.

Special music will be provided during the program, the local minister said.

A native of Puerto Rico, the Rev. Santiago has been serving in Latin America since 1967. With his wife, he has been extensively involved in evangelistic crusades and also has contributed to the establishment of several self-supporting churches throughout Ecuador.

"It is exciting to be working in an area that is experiencing tremendous growth, as far as evangelical work is concerned," the Rev. Santiago said.

In his presentation at Sunday's rally, he will be sharing news about the current revival in progress in Latin America.

Prior to his overseas assignment, the Rev. Santiago served as a pastor, a chaplain and an associated editor of religious publications.

He studied at New York City College, the Latin American Bible Institute in La Puente, Calif., and at Central Bible College, Springfield, Mo.

GC Jr. Service plan projects

The Granite City Junior Service Club met Monday night in the home of Mrs. Donna Sprinkle, 1520 Joy Ave., to discuss forthcoming projects of the club, which will be presented to the members for approval at the regular session.

Activities tentatively planned include a "probe" party and bake sale in March, an Easter project to assist a needy family and a garage sale during the summer months.

Reports and announcements made at the January board meeting held in the home of Mrs. Jannie Staats, were also reviewed.

Mrs. Pam Reed, club president, announced a federation dinner is scheduled for April and will be held in Madison.

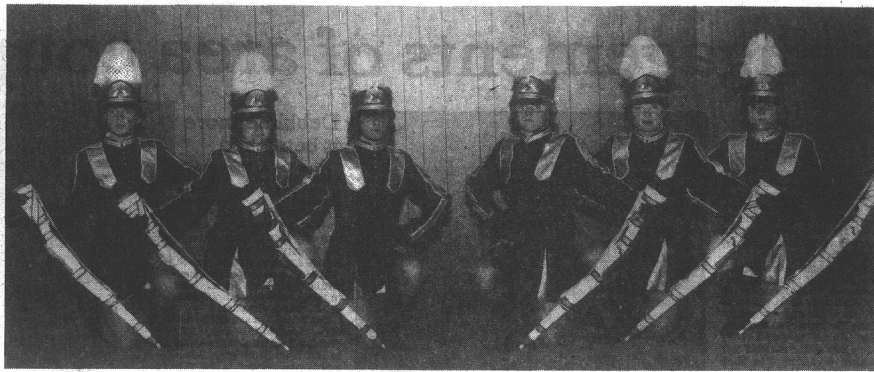

Others attending were Faith Holsinger, Flora Mac Lensing, Janet Warren, Gale McFarland and Brenda Weckman. The next meeting will be at 7:30 p.m. Monday, Feb. 27, at the Nameless United Presbyterian Church, it was noted.

The Ladies Club of St. Margaret Mary Church enrolled Jo Ann Kovar, Bennie Valencia, Loreta Rakowski and Dorothy Caldwell, as new members at a meeting, Tuesday night, held in the school cafeteria.

President Mrs. Karen Costello was in charge of the session as plans were scheduled for a past officers party at the March 21 meeting.

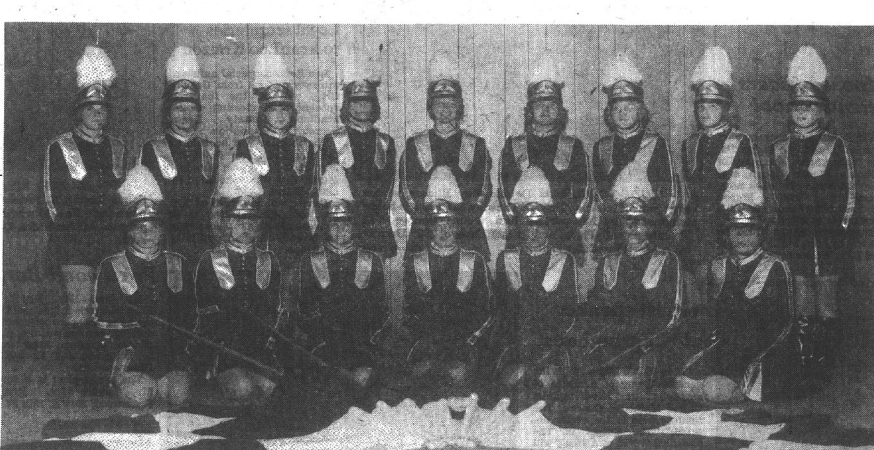

A discussion followed on the newly formed push award ceremony, which involves welcoming and prayer committees and a chairman to send cards to members on various occasions.

The third and sixth grade room mothers served refreshments to 33 members after the meeting. Mrs. Mary Cagle was the winner of the quilt of the month and Mrs. Jennie Conley received the evening prize.

Five-car crash injures two

Two persons were injured in a five-car accident on ice on Maryville Road at Pine Street at 7:55 a.m. Tuesday.

Witnesses said the southbound auto of Dennis Barber, 29, of 4917 Carl Ave., went out of control on the ice, crossed the center line and struck the northbound pickup truck of Michael Almond, Troy, head-on.

The northbound auto of Jessie Tackbarber, 83 Morris Court, then turned sideways to avoid the accident and was struck on the passenger side. The northbound auto of Curtis Beatty, 2712 Angela Drive, and Jeffrey Logan, 6 Fairway Estates, Arlington Heights, then became involved in the sheriff's office reported.

Barber sustained injuries, but declined to be taken to the hospital. Almond's son, Joshua, 3, who struck his head on the truck's dashboard, was taken by Granite City ambulance to St. Elizabeth Hospital where he was treated for a cut to his face. X-rays were taken and he was released.

Tomato seeds should be suitable to area

When ordering seeds for spring and summer gardens, Herb Hopewell, University of Illinois Extension vegetable crop specialist, offers the following suggestions.

First, be sure the seed variety you select is suitable to your area. Specific maturity dates should coincide with your growing season.

The type of plant should "fit" the area. For example, cherry tomatoes will grow in a small area. But if you have a large garden, you'll probably want regular-sized tomatoes. Vegetables that can be stacked up also work in small areas.

Select disease-resistant seeds — especially if the same vegetable is planted in the same place season after season, explains Hopewell.

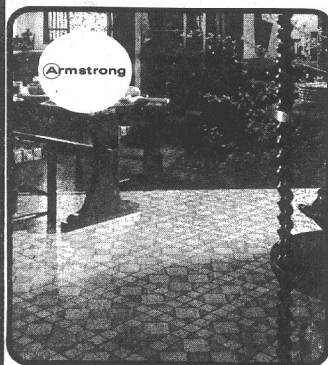

Many seeds will keep for several years if they are stored in a cool, dry place. Lettuce seed, however, has short storage period. It should not be planted more than two years after it has been purchased, according to the horticulturist.

"It's best not to buy more seeds than you can use," says Hopewell. "Look on the package for the appropriate quantity and row length this quantity will plant. Plan accordingly and buy the amount you have room to plant."

Statewide concern on low immunization levels

A statewide survey of kindergarten children conducted by the Illinois Office of Education has revealed that immunization levels are seriously below the recommended level for polio, diphtheria, pertussis (whooping cough), tetanus, measles and rubella (German measles), according to State Superintendent of Education Joseph M. Cronin.

He noted at last week's State Board of Education meeting that Illinois law requires all children enrolling in Illinois schools to be properly immunized against these preventable childhood diseases. At the kindergarten level, this would mean four doses of polio vaccine, five of diphtheria-pertussis-tetanus (DPT), and one of measles and rubella. In addition, mumps vaccination is strongly recommended, although not required by law.

Cronin said the survey showed that barely half (53 percent) of Illinois kindergarten children are fully immunized against polio. A little over one-third (34 percent) are fully protected against diphtheria, pertussis and tetanus; 78 percent against measles; 69 percent against rubella; and 90 percent against mumps.

He noted that public health officials warn that 90 percent of the population needs adequate immunization in order to insure against epidemics.

Cronin said he found some of the statistics to be frightening. "Thirty-five public school districts reported less than 10 percent of their kindergarten children were fully immunized against polio," he said. "Eighty-three reported less than 10 percent immunized against diphtheria, pertussis and tetanus."

"School and health officials must come to grips with this problem and enforce the state law," Cronin said. "It can and must be done."

Some districts have done it, he said, pointing out the 96 public school districts which reported 90 percent or better immunization of their kindergarten children against polio, 45 which reported 90 percent or better for DPT, 308 which reported 90 percent or better for measles; 233 which reported 90 percent or better for rubella and 100 which reported 90 percent or better for mumps.

He noted that the Springfield school district reported recently that follow-up efforts by school health personnel last year raised the immunization levels of its kindergarten children to over 90 percent by the end of the school year.

Cronin called on regional superintendents to develop an action plan in cooperation with state and local-level public health officials to raise the levels of adequately immunized children to 90 percent.

"I sympathize with local school districts who must accept responsibility for another problem — one which seemingly isn't an 'educational' problem. Ideally, a child is immunized before he or she is two years old — long before entering school."

"However, too many children have not been immunized as infants and, as a result, arrive at the schoolhouse doors each fall without the proper protection."

"Although these diseases can be a relatively minor health problem for most children, they can lead to permanent damage — paralysis, blindness, deafness, brain damage, mental retardation — or death."

"These illnesses — and epidemics which occur — cause serious disruption of the educational program."

Cronin said a comprehensive study of immunization levels for Illinois kindergarten children through grade 12 will be made next fall at the request of the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

HEW's long-range goals, according to Cronin, are (1) to catch up on the estimated 20 million children under 15 who presently lack adequate immunization and (2) to establish a permanent system to insure immunization of the three million born each year.

In other action, the State Board of Education approved the Rockford district desegregation plan. Cronin said Rockford has made "substantial gains" in its plan.

A staff report presented to the State Board noted: "The present proposal has merit and a probability of success not found in previous plans. Projections of the changes to be accomplished by the moratorium are substantiated by a review of the last two years' movement out of the various centers, and there seems to be no reason to doubt the projections as presented."

The board also approved the desegregation plan of the Waukegan district.

The state superintendent also reported to the board that an appeal has been filed on the Kane County court decision involving Aurora desegregation efforts and the state guidelines.

Reviews book at historical society meet

Mrs. Georgia Engleke reviewed her book "Old Six Mile" at a meeting of the Friends of the Madison County Historical Museum last week at the museum in Edwardsville.

The book is a history of the Granite City area from its earliest beginnings to the present time and was published in 1976. It is now used as a textbook in the ninth grade history classes of the Granite City schools.

Mrs. Engleke told how she first became interested in her project and went about publishing it. She also discussed the difficulties of pioneer life in this section of Illinois and told of the first settlers and their contribution to the founding of Granite City.

She is a descendant of one of the first families who lived in the area because the present city of Granite City.

A business meeting conducted by Mrs. Ann Jarvis of Troy, the chairman of the organization, and a buffet potluck luncheon, followed the talk.

Appeal ruling on segregation

The State Board of Education has filed a notice of appeal of a Kane County Circuit Court decision invalidating the state education office's rules against racial segregation in schools.

The board filed the notice Thursday in Circuit Court in Geneva and followed up by petitioning the Illinois Supreme Court to review the decision on a direct and expedited basis.

The Supreme Court is authorized to hear appeals directly from circuit courts in any case in which the public interest requires prompt decision. In other cases, the appeal goes to an intermediate appellate court.

The board cited the profound impact the ruling may have on desegregation efforts throughout the state and indicated that Judge Ernest Akemann's decision may be in conflict with earlier decisions by federal courts and by a circuit court in Madison County.

Gardening seminars scheduled

By RON CORNWELL, Extension Farm Adviser

Vegetable gardening, small fruit production and tree fruit production are topics of food production seminars scheduled for homeowners in Madison County during February.

The small fruit production seminar is scheduled for Monday, Feb. 27, at 1:30 p.m. in the Farm Bureau auditorium, 900 Hillsboro, Edwardsville.

This program covers cultural tips on raising strawberries, blueberries, blackberries, raspberries, gooseberries and currants in the backyard. It will also cover recommended varieties and pest control practices.

The advanced vegetable gardeners seminar is scheduled for Tuesday, Feb. 28, at 9 a.m. in the Farm Bureau auditorium. This program is designed for the gardener with three or more years of gardening experience.

Topics to be covered include discussions of soil fertility, varieties, and garden pest control. Adequate time will be available to discuss individual gardening problems.

The tree fruit seminar is scheduled for Tuesday, Feb. 28, at 7:30 p.m. in the Farm Bureau auditorium. This program will cover cultural tips on apples, peaches, apricots, pears and plums in the backyard.

Other topics to be covered include long term harvest, espalier training and pest control.

The beginning vegetable gardening seminar is scheduled for Wednesday, March 1, at 7:30 p.m. in the Farm Bureau auditorium. The program is geared to persons with less than two or three years gardening experience.

Topics to be covered include garden layout, varieties, preparing the soil, planting vegetables, fertility, insect and weed control plus other gardening tips.

Chris Dold, University of Illinois area adviser in fruits and vegetables, will be the speaker at each seminar except the beginners gardening seminar. I will present the beginners gardening seminar.

Advanced registration is encouraged for these seminars to aid in preparing handout materials. Registration fee is $1 for any one session or $2 for all four sessions.

Registrations may be sent to Ron Cornwell, Agriculture Extension Service, 900 Hillsboro, Box 406, Edwardsville, Ill. 62025.

Anyone with questions on the seminars may call the Madison County Extension office at 656-7200.

$1,265 JEWELRY THEFT

Three pieces of jewelry valued at a total of $1,265 were stolen from a jewelry box at the home of Barbara Eaker of the 2000 block of Manley Avenue, she discovered at 3:15 p.m. Monday. Taken were a $1,000 opal and diamond ring, a $160 black onyx and diamond ring and a $100 pair of diamond earrings.

Baroque lecture-recital

Austrian violinist and conductor Eduard Melkus, an internationally-known interpreter of baroque music, will present a lecture and recital at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville Thursday, Feb. 22.

The program is scheduled for the Lovjoy Library auditorium at 8:15 p.m. and will focus on the performance of the Handel Sonatas for Violin and Continuo, using 18th Century instruments of original dimensions. The performance is free and open to the public.

Melkus has received international acclaim for his recordings of the major violin works of Handel, Bach, Telemann, Biber, Tartini, Vivaldi and many others.

According to Kent Perry, associate professor of music at SIUE, Melkus' recordings for Deutsche Grammophon Gesellschaft have won top awards for nine years, in part because of his distinctive French Grand Prix du Disque and the German Preis der Deutschen Schallplatten.

Reviewing Melkus' performance at the Queen Elizabeth Hall in London last year, the London Daily Telegraph wrote: "There is at present no finer interpreter of the violin music of the baroque."

His grasp of the essential style of such music is unrivaled — an impeccable blend of scholarship, technical poise, and creative musicianship."

Similar reviews have appeared throughout Europe and the U.S., including those written by the New York Times and Time magazine.

This semester, Melkus is a visiting professor at the University of Illinois-Urbana School of Music.

Additional information concerning the lecture-recital may be obtained by contacting Kent Perry in the SIUE School of Music at 692-3550.

Airman Binkley in exercise

Airman First Class Glenn A. Binkley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Knipping, 2340 Terminal Ave., is participating in "Red Flag 78-3," a Tactical Air Command training exercise conducted at Michael Army Airfield, about 60 miles southwest of Salt Lake City, Utah.

Airman Binkley is an aircraft maintenance specialist at Seymour Johnson AFB, N.C., with the 4th Tactical Fighter Wing.

The Red Flag exercise series is designed to provide air and ground crews with realistic training while operating under simulated combat conditions.

The airman is a 1975 graduate of Granite City High School South.

Since 1958, Melkus has been a professor of violin at the Vienna Academy of Music, where he directs the Capella Academica baroque ensemble heard on many of his recordings. His seminar on historic instruments provided the basis on which the Capella Academica was founded.

Like the original capellas, the object of the Capella Academica is to perform baroque masses and operas with soloists and choirs, as well as early classical works up to the time of Haydn and Mozart.

"What makes modern music attractive for young people is the experimental nature, the improvisation, and the unconventional behavior that goes with it, plus the production of new, 'unworn-out' sounds and a certain element of rhythm."

The violinist points out that all these things are just as much present in so-called old music.

Reviewing Melkus' performance at the Queen Elizabeth Hall in London last year, the London Daily Telegraph wrote: "There is at present no finer interpreter of the violin music of the baroque."

His grasp of the essential style of such music is unrivaled — an impeccable blend of scholarship, technical poise, and creative musicianship."

Use fireplace safely

By MARY RICHARDS
Illinois Department of Public Health

This winter, more and more people are using their home fireplaces — to conserve energy, to save money and to create a warm, cozy atmosphere on cold winter nights. There are some safety hazards connected with using your fireplace, however, and the Illinois Department of Public Health has some suggestions that will help you utilize your fireplace more safely.

1. Make sure your fireplace was constructed to be used as a fireplace, and not just for decoration. Inspect it at least once a year to make sure all vents and chimneys are operating properly.
2. Do not use gasoline or other flammable liquids to kindle or rekindle a fire. The flammable vapors can explode. And, never use flammable liquids (such as cleaning solvents) near a fire — explosive vapors can travel the length of a room and ignite.
3. Always keep the damper open while your fire is burning. This will provide for efficient burning and help prevent the accumulation of poisonous or explosive gases.

4. Do not use coal, charcoal or styrofoam packaging in your fireplace.
5. Do not treat artificial logs (Made from sawdust and wax) the same way you treat real wood logs. Use only one at a time. If you use more, they can produce too much heat for some fireplaces to withstand.

6. Always use a screen that completely covers the opening around your fireplace, to keep sparks from flying out. And do not place combustible materials, such as carpets or furniture too near the fireplace.
7. Children should be kept well away from the fire, as their clothing can easily ignite. The same is true of adults wearing long, flowing or loose-fitting clothing.

8. If you install your own fireplace, be sure you know what you are doing. Have it inspected by a professional before you use it.
9. Be sure that all ashes are thoroughly cool before you dispose of them.
10. Make sure the fire is completely out before going to bed.

11. Use chimney guards to prevent squirrel or bird nests from stopping up your chimneys. The state health department believes that if you follow these suggestions, you will decrease your chances of a fireplace accident and will increase the pleasure you can derive from knowing that you are using your fireplace as safely as possible. Quad-Cityans who want more information about fireplace safety may contact their health department, or write to: Illinois Department of Public Health, Product Safety Program, 525 West Jefferson, Springfield, Ill. 62761.

Royal Rangers honor outstanding members

The Royal Rangers Outpost 73 of Tri-City Park Tabernacle held its annual father and son night and awards ceremony last week at the church.

Senior Commander Jerry Freeman welcomed 60 boys, fathers and leaders who attended the event. He gave a short talk on the national campfire scheduled for the month, and urged the boys to attend. Highlight of the evening was the Royal Ranger of the Year trophies with the commander of each group presenting first, second and third place awards to the boys who had compiled the most points during the year.

Each member of the organization was given points for various activities at the regular meetings and the total accumulation tabulated for the year.

Commander Al Lenzi presented first place trophy to Monte Naler, second to Jim Slecka and third to Tim Free of the Trail Rangers.

Traillblazer Commander Jim Black awarded first to Steve Naler, second to Tim Black and third to Tim Nolen.

Pioneer Lt. Commander Carlos Jordan gave a first place award to Mark Barnfield, second to Jeff Freeman, and third to Doug Elliott. He also awarded a silver dollar to Pioneer of the Month Philip Jordan.

Commander Jerry Meyenburg presented his awards to Daryl Meyenburg, first; Tim Hutchinson, second, and Alan Lenzi, third, and the Buckaro of the Month arrowhead necklace to Alan Lenzi.

Special recognition was accorded to three boys who had joined the Frontiersman Camping Fraternity (FCF) at the pow-wow campout in September 1977.

Rigid requirements for acceptance into the higher level of advancement include: the boy must be in the Trailblazer (age 12-14) or Trailranger (age 15-17) Outposts, and carry the rank of at least first class; they must file an application with the district scribe 10 days before the campout, for staff review.

After being accepted, they are required to go through two phases of testing at the pow-wow. The first phase is a test of skills, patience and nerve, and phase two is an all-night vigil initiation consisting of a choice of activities and feats of bravery, and a night in the woods without shelter.

Monte Naler, Jim Slecka and Tim Free successfully completed the tests with high honors and are now members of the FCF. Each of the honorees were presented with a gift by FCF Coordinator Jerry Meyenburg, on behalf of the local organization. He announced the trio are the first Granite City boys to become members of the FCF.

The final award for the evening was the "upside down canoe" trophy which went to Sam Grace, FCF vice-president, who capitalized on the yearly canoe trips more times than any other leader.

After the meeting a game was held for members and those winning prizes were Tim Hutchinson, Danny and John Mave and Tom Naler.

Commander Freeman announced an exhibit of prizes was displayed and members who sell the most tickets to the annual chili day, set for Feb. 25, will be eligible to win.

Prizes for this event include a 10-speed bicycle, back pack, two-man tent, cassette recorder, sleeping bag, two tennis rackets, basketball, chemistry games and many other smaller prizes.

Chili will be served at the church from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. and is the only fund-raising project of the Rangers, according to the commander. Tickets also will be sold at the door, he added.

GC crimes up slightly

Major crimes in eight categories increased only slightly during January over those of the same month a year ago, according to a report released by Chief of Police Ronald Veizer.

A total of 162 crimes last month was only three more than the 159 cases reported in January 1977, the report said, with 38 of last month's cases solved by arrest. Sixty cases were solved in January 1977.

The Police Department solved 38 other cases by arrest last month for a total of 92 cases solved. In January last year, 60 additional cases were solved, bringing the total for that month to 120.

Robberies increased substantially last month, with a total of six as compared with one in the same month a year ago. Burglaries totaled 46 last month, up over 36 a year ago.

One forcible rape case was reported in January, compared to none in January a year ago. There were 16 assault cases last month, down from 21; 36 auto burglary cases, down from 39; 43 larceny cases, down from 40 and 14 auto theft cases, up from 13.

One fatal accident occurred last month, up from none last year, while 35 personal injury accidents resulted in the injury of 49 persons. In January 1977 there were 33 injury accidents, resulting in the injury of 44 persons.

Two hundred property damage accidents last month, compared to 213 in January 1977, brought total accidents for the month to 236, down ten from 246 a year ago.

Police made a total of 167 traffic arrests during the month, and 60 other arrests for a total of 227 arrests. An additional 30 charges were filed in these cases, bringing the total charges to 257.

This compares with 84 traffic arrests during January a year ago, plus 97 other arrests for a total of 181 arrests. At that time 33 additional charges were filed for a total of 214 charges.

Refund claims on stolen items reported rising

Due to increased numbers of cases where shoplifters are attempting to claim refunds for stolen merchandise, some merchants in the Quad-City area are now offering to mail refund checks to persons, rather than granting "on the spot" refunds, the Press-Record has learned.

Numerous cases have been reported recently where items, believed stolen moments earlier, have been taken to the refund desks of several stores and demands made for refunds.

If the refund is refused, the customers have been leaving the store with the items. Large drug stores and a large hardware store have reported the most suspected instances of such thefts, police said.

Due to the continuing problem, some stores are reverting to a strict policy of requiring proof of purchase before granting refunds and refund checks to customers so the customer's name and correct address will be on record at each store.

Final registration centers scheduled in Quad-City area

Voter registrations will be accepted by county clerk deputies at seven special registration centers to be conducted in the Quad-City area during the weekend and early next week.

The centers will be the last in a series of such special registrations that was begun in 1977 by County Clerk Evelyn Bowles, as a convenience to newly-qualified voters who otherwise would have to go to Edwardsville to register.

The deadline for registering to vote in the March 21 primary election is Tuesday, Feb. 21. Two of the registration centers are scheduled in this area on that date.

Registration centers will include: Granite City—Granite City Trust & Savings Bank, 4 to 7 p.m. Friday, Feb. 17; Schnuck's Crossroads Plaza, 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Friday, Feb. 17; Tri-City Grocery, Bellemore Village, noon to 5 p.m. Saturday, Feb. 18. Madison—City Hall, 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. Tuesday, Feb. 21. Mitchell—E&L Quick Stop, 5237 Maryville Road, 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday, Feb. 18.

Venice—West Madison Memorial Center, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday, Feb. 18; Venice City Hall, noon to 7 p.m. Tuesday, Feb. 21.

Musical 'Cabaret' at SIUE

The department of theater and dance at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville will present the musical, "Cabaret," beginning Wednesday, Feb. 22, according to William Vilhauer, chairman of the department.

The student production is scheduled Feb. 22, 23, 24 and 25 at 8:15 p.m. in the Communications Building theater. A special matinee performance will be presented Feb. 26 at 2:30 p.m. at the same location.

Set in the decadence and terror of Berlin during the late 1920s, "Cabaret" is the story of a young American novelist and an eccentric English girl who almost fail to recognize the approaching horror of Nazi Germany.

The play won the 1967 New York Drama Critics' Circle Award and the Tony Award for best musical.

Heading the cast are Karl Ely of Edwardsville, playing the role of Sally Bowles; Don Parker of Edwardsville, playing the role of the Emcee; Clifford Bradshaw; and Kelsey Fries of Belleville as the Master of ceremonies.

Other featured members of the cast include Mike Ramach of Edwardsville as Ernst Ludwig, Gwen Harris of Granite City as Fraulein Schneider, Kate Motley of Edwardsville as Mollie Kost, Ron Eldridge of St. Louis as Herr Schuster, and Brad Woodbridge of Centralia as the customs officer.

The Kit Kat girls are Chris Allen of Edwardsville, Lynn Carter of Alton, Linda Gradi of St. Charles, Kathy Flynn of Edwardsville, and Lynne Moon and Peggy Pacevic, both of Belleville. German sailors include Joe Huber of Alton, Bob Kratky of Edwardsville, Dave Alge of St.

Louis and Brad Woolbright. A singing chorus of 15 will round out the cast.

The production is under the direction of Alcine Wilts, director of dance at the University. She also does the choreography. Sets have been designed by Vilhauer. Costumes are by Charles Otis Sweeney, assistant professor of theater and dance, and lighting by Sally Jo Lettner of Edwardsville.

Ticket reservations are strongly urged and can be obtained by telephoning the University Center ticket office at (618) 698-2520.

Candidates interviews by labor start Saturday

Candidates for county and district offices in the March 21 primary election will be interviewed by the Screening Committee of the Tri-City Trades and Labor Council this weekend and next, according to Edwin F. Reiske, president of the council.

Interviews will be conducted Saturday from 9 a.m. until noon in Hall No. 3 at the Labor Temple, Reiske said.

The second session will be held during the same hours on Sunday, Feb. 25, also in Hall No. 3 at the Labor Temple.

The Screening Committee will make a report to the Trades Council embodying recommendations for endorsements to be voted by the council.

The committee also will arrange for candidate interviews for those seeking elections in this year's April 8 school elections. Filing of school candidates will open Feb. 22 and close on March 17.

Grants for elderly

March 10, in SWIAAOA's office East St. Louis.

Approximately $437,417 in Title XX funds will be made available for preliminary planning purposes for the 12-month period beginning Oct. 1 this year and ending Sept. 30, 1979.

Requests for Older Americans Act Title III applications, and Title XX information may be directed to Nancy C. Silvers, director, Southwestern Illinois Area Agency on Aging, 8787 State St., Suite 107, East St. Louis, Ill. 62203, or by telephoning (618) 271-0053. Organizations applying for funds should submit applications in duplicate by March 10 this year.

Applications will be reviewed on the basis of correctness of application, appropriate cost figures, the meeting of priority needs of those 60 plus, and meeting Federal guidelines.

These funding figures are subject to revision pending final allocation award by the Illinois Department on Aging.

Commander Jerry Meyenburg presented his awards to Daryl Meyenburg, first; Tim Hutchinson, second, and Alan Lenzi, third, and the Buckaro

Installation of surgeon next week

Xamnan Tulyasathien, M.D., of Granite City, will be inducted Feb. 24 as a fellow of the American Academy of Orthopaedic Surgeons at the group's 45th annual meeting in Dallas.

Dr. Tulyasathien will be one of 503 fellows installed in ceremonies held in the Convention Center area. The rites will include a special new member orientation program detailing the academy's history, organizational structure, activities and current problems.

Induction of the class of 1978 will bring the academy's active membership to 8,286.

It is the nation's largest medical organization for specialists in bone and joint surgery.

To be eligible for induction, all fellows must have passed the certifying examination of the American Board of Orthopaedic Surgery.

Flamenco guitarist to perform

Through the cooperation of the Nicaraguan consulate, Belleville Area College has arranged for a repeat appearance of Flamenco and classical guitarist Ron Hudson during the college's sixth annual Fine Arts Festival.

Hudson will perform in the college theater at 9:30 a.m. on Monday, Feb. 20.

Maria Teresa Aguilera Lucas, a resident of Belleville, will follow his appearance at 11:15 a.m. Monday with a program of Mexican classical and folk music.

Hudson has achieved international fame with his guitar style. He began his musical career at the age of ten, in a small Mayan village of Guatemala, where he was instructed by his missionary parents.

In 1961, he came to the United States and continued his musical training at Bethany Nazarene College in Oklahoma and the University of Texas. He was the first guitarist to receive a grant from the Institute of Hispanic Culture to study the instrument in Spain.

His repertoire ranges from classical to his native Guatemalan music. He has had three successful albums published.

Heart drive in Pontoon Beach

Volunteers will go door-to-door in Pontoon Beach Sunday for "Heart Fund Sunday." The project will begin with an organizational meeting in the village hall and volunteers will leave the hall about 1:30 p.m. Sunday to solicit donations in their assigned areas.

Village Heart Fund Chairman Pat Luchini noted the volunteers include members of the Leo-Explorer Club, the Lions Club, children's groups and others.

Our theme is "Everyone has a heart. Let's open it up," Mrs. Luchini said.

FIRST RECIPIENT. Harvey Hawkins, 616 East Chain of Rocks Road, seated, receives the first hearing aid made available through the Chouteau Township Title II revenue sharing program administered by the township's supervisor Walter "Dick" Sparks, right. The program also provides eye glasses and dentures to township residents, who must be retired and whose income qualifies. At left is Andrew W. Davis, owner and operator of the Tri-City Hearing Aid Service, 1142 Rhodes St., Madison, where the first hearing aid was purchased. Interested residents of Chouteau Township may contact the township office for further information about the assistance. (Press-Record Photo)

Farmers average yearly expenditure of $32,000

In 1976, U.S. farmers paid out over $89 billion to produce crops, livestock, and poultry.

A new report, issued by the U.S. Department of Agriculture and the Illinois Cooperative Crop and Livestock Reporting Service, notes that the expenditure averaged more than $32,000 per farm, nationally.

Chief expenditure was for feed, which accounted for over $14 billion.

Next came rent at $8.1 billion, followed by wages at $7.4 billion.

Fertilizer, lime and soil conditioners totaled $7.2 billion, and purchases of livestock and poultry $7.1 billion.

James R. Kendall of the Illinois Cooperative Crop and Livestock Reporting Service believes that farm production outlays need to be closely watched if there is to be a reliable measure of farmers' well-being, compared with other groups in the nation's economy.

Kendall's office will interview a cross-section of Illinois farmers during this month and March as part of a nationwide survey to determine 1977 farm production expenditures. Along with questions concerning outlays for equipment and services and other needs, other farmers will be asked about their marketing practices for livestock, field crops, fruits and vegetables.

Kendall said farmers' responses will be confidential and only state and national summaries will be published.

Like a good neighbor, State Farm is there.

Law committees' spending debated

By AL MANNING

SPRINGFIELD — Two committees established by the Illinois Supreme Court do not follow state law relating to purchasing and travel regulations.

The two committees are the Board of Law Examiners and the Attorney Regulation and Disciplinary Commission.

Judge Roy Guiley, director of the Administrative Office of the Illinois Courts, said: "They do not in fact follow the state purchasing act. They do not follow state travel regulations."

"That is not to indicate anything is wrong, they simply have established their own rules as opposed to following the state law."

Violation of the state purchasing act carries criminal penalties, of course, but there is a debate as to whether these committees spend public money.

Robert Cronson, the auditor general, contends the money they spend is public money and should be audited by the state.

The Illinois Supreme Court, which established the two committees by rules of the court, refuses to turn over the records to Cronson.

Daniel Ward, chief justice of the Illinois Supreme court, appeared before the Legislative Audit Commission and said the legislative branch does not have the right to audit the books because the money spent by the committees is not public money.

The Board of Law Examiners administers the bar association examinations given to prospective lawyers. The Attorney Regulation and Disciplinary Commission assesses lawyers an annual fee and uses the money to investigate allegations of impropriety against lawyers.

Together, the two bodies have accumulated over $500,000.

Although the accounts have been audited by private firms and those audits given to the state, Cronson says a compliance audit done by his office would go further than the private audits.

He said the state auditors would determine such things as compliance with the purchasing act.

After Cronson referred to the purchasing act, Judge Guiley hinted to the Audit Commission that the two bodies were not complying with state law.

The Audit Commission then voted 9 to 0 to support

Cronson's efforts to obtain the court's records.

The chief justice came to the hearing room prepared to discuss constitutional questions concerning the separation of powers among the three branches of government.

Instead, the legislative branch gave him a lesson in checks and balances. Ward was forced to answer questions for more than an hour, and he was submitted to a tortuous monologue by state Sen. Fred Smith, D-Chicago.

Smith, the aging dean of the Senate who has been dumped by his ward committee, asked long, rambling questions about how many persons take the bar exam, how many blacks are employed by the courts, etc.

When other legislators objected to his questions and tried to steer him back on the track, he argued with them. At one point he said: "If nobody objects to this question, I'll object myself because I'm not sure it's to the point."

Finally, after they had compared Ward's position to that of President Nixon's during Watergate, the committee cut him off.

criticism the chief justice took from the legislators.

Rep. Dwight Friedrich, R-Centralia, told him:

"I'm disillusioned with the courts. A judge blackmails banks in my district and when I complain I'm told nothing is wrong. I get no help from your organization. Don't you think you should be responsible to somebody?"

The most articulate criticism came from Rep. Richard Bumner, D-Effingham. The young lawyer had enough gumption to tell the chief justice: "I cannot understand your position, I hear what you're saying but..."

Of course, the non-lawyers in the Legislature don't expect the lawyer-legislators to help them fight the Supreme Court.

Sen. Harber Hall, R-Bloomington, said one prominent lawyer-legislator who serves in the leadership told him privately:

"I'm with you 100 per cent...until it comes to a vote."

ANNOUNCEMENT
NUMBER 2
An invitation for submission of grants to serve the elderly in Bond, Clinton, Madison, Randolph, St. Clair, Monroe, and Washington counties is being extended by the Southwestern Illinois Area Agency on Aging (SWIAAOA).
The deadline for submission of applications will be 5:00 p.m. on March 10, 1978, in SWIAAOA's office, 8787 State Street, Suite
107, East St. Louis, Illinois,
62203.
Approximately $437,417.00 in Title III and approximately $102,000.00 in Title XX funds will be made available for preliminary planning purposes for the twelve-month period beginning October 1, 1978, and ending September 30, 1979.
Requests for Older American Act Title III applications, and Title XX information should be directed to Ms. Nancy C.
Silvers, Director, Southwestern Illinois Area Agency on Aging,
8787 State Street, Suite 107, East
St. Louis, Ill., 62203, or by telephoning (618) 271-0053.
Organizations applying for funds should submit applications in duplicate by March 10, 1978.
Applications will be reviewed on the basis of correctness of application, appropriate cost figures, the meeting of priority needs of those sixty plus, and must meet Federal guidelines.
These funding figures are subject to revision pending final allocation award by the Illinois Department on Aging.

Weather is preventing early gardening here

By CHRIS DOLL
Area Garden Adviser

Gardeners who believe in sowing lettuce and radishes on Washington's birthday may have problems this year.

If the snow has melted by then, the ground will still be frozen or muddy.

There isn't anything to gain by rushing the season this much, and it's best to wait until soil conditions and temperatures combine to make for good planting and good growth.

So, gardening is restricted to mental exercises, starting plants indoors, and pruning of fruit plants.

Only the earliest of vegetable plants such as cabbage, broccoli and cauliflower should be started now. March 1 is usually early enough for tomato plants.

Pruning can be done when the weather is fit to be out, and can be done until buds break or even later.

Even though pruning can be done anytime of the year, dormant pruning of fruit plants is advantageous to both the plant and the grower.

At this time, the profile of the tree is easy to see; diseased or dead wood can be removed. Danger of cold injury is minimized, and it's cool enough to enjoy the physical exertion. The next six weeks should provide ample time to get the job done. It also gives time to evaluate the crop potential of peaches and apricots so that the amount of pruning can be adjusted according to the number of live fruit buds.

Apples and pears are the hardest fruit plants and these should be pruned first. If there are many trees, work on the older ones first as they can withstand more cutting and cold.

Grapes are nearly as hardy as apples and pears and can be pruned early. However, pruning late when the sap is flowing and "bleeding" occurs, doesn't hurt the plant. But prune before the buds swell to prevent tearing off the young buds and shoots.

The stone fruits — peaches, cherries, plums and apricots — may be pruned now, but early March is better from the standpoint of possible cold injury.

At that time, fruit bud survival can be determined, and pruning can be based somewhat on crop prospects.

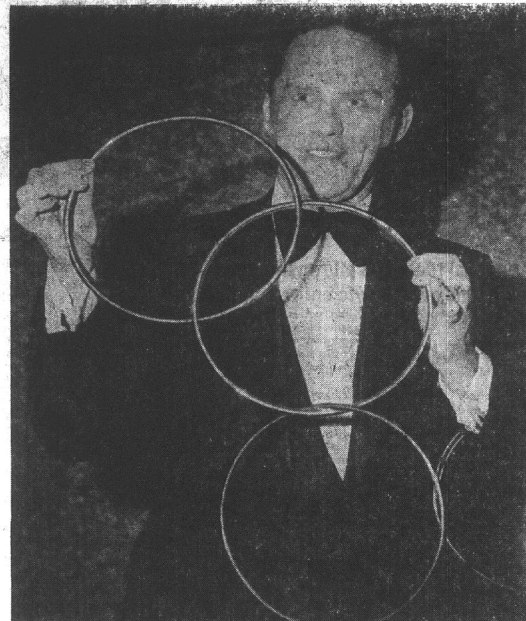

Many commercial peach growers wait until trees are blooming, but it takes a lot of intestinal fortitude to cut off blooming branches.

Brambles (blackberries and raspberries) are ideal pruned after the last chance of cold injury is past and when it's easy to determine the amount of winter injury incurred. This is when buds start to break.

However, on large plantings, this is impractical due to the amount of work involved. And, since it's best to wear heavy, briar-proof clothing when working, you may want to prune while it's still cool. March should meet these requirements.

This is not to say that pruning already done is wrong. It has been a fairly cold winter, but only slight cold injury to plants or peach buds is visible at this time.

In future years, however, it might be best to wait for the later and safer periods, such as late February and March.

Escape artist to perform at Officer Friendly game

By VALERIE EVENEDEN
Press-Record Staff Writer

Almost since he can remember, Harry Monti has been hanging upside down ... and, the higher the better.

Not content with being suspended above ordinary folks, wrongside up, Monti prefers to be strapped securely into a canvas straightjacket while in that position and then extricate himself to the amazement of the open mouthed onlookers.

He's done the trick from many different heights, including at the top of an aerial fire truck.

On Tuesday, Feb. 28, Harry Monti will perform his noteworthy act suspended from the high roof inside Memorial Gymnasium at Granite City High School South.

His skillful exploit will take place during the spectacular halftime show at the Officer Friendly benefit basketball game, starting at 8 p.m., featuring the Granite City Police-Firemen All Stars and the Big Red All Stars of the St. Louis Football Cardinals.

Tickets for the contest, to benefit the Officer Friendly Athletic Fund, cost $2 each for each adult or one also will admit two children, under 12.

They are available at Granite City police headquarters, at the three fire stations in Granite City and the Madison County Federal Savings and Loan, 3800 Nameoki Road, co-sponsors of the game. Tickets also may be purchased at the gate.

As a magician, Harry Monti has made a specialty of escapes. In addition to struggling out of straight-jackets, he has escaped from handcuffs, from tightly knotted ropes, from wooden crates and, duplicating a favorite exploit of Harry Houdini's, from a padlocked milk can filled with water.

He has dangled from trees, fire trucks and rooftops and escaped from more handcuffs than one can imagine. His collection of stunts, including many unusual ones, now numbers more than 200 pairs. Monti's skill is attested to by the fact he has been asked to perform at the Magic Castle, a Hollywood key club and restaurant, open only to members and magicians.

He has spent many vacations there, performing closeup magic for such Hollywood personalities as Tony Curtis, Elsa Lancaster and Rock Hudson.

His escapades have led to more than one close call with the final curtain to his bold achievements.

In 1965 when attempting to escape, while dangling from a fire department ladder in East St. Louis, he ran afoul of a new they relaxed and the rope began to slip off.

He twisted out in time to grab the rope with his hands.

Monti had another brush with near disaster while practicing the milk can escape routine at home, alone. He decided to try the trick upside down in a can filled with water, after successfully escaping from an unfiled can.

To his dismay, Monti found he was too buoyant to force his feet to the bottom of the 55-gallon can and he was stuck upside down and rapidly running out of breath.

"I started bouncing up and down on my arms and finally, I got high enough to get my thighs over the edge and could wiggle out," the magician said.

Monti has been interested in the art of trickery since the age of 8 and at 13 years old, he became entranced with the feats of Houdini. But, he also has other accomplishments in his life.

He is, or has been, a speed skating champion, a trapeze performer, circus buff and amateur photographer. He also is employed as a supervisor in the export department of a medical publishing firm in St. Louis.

His first love in magic, however, is not escape work, but slight of hand and he is known as an outstanding close-up performer in the supper club manner.

At the Officer Friendly benefit game, Monti will ask someone in the audience, or among the players, to tape tightly his thumbs, then tie together his hands.

At this point, he will be thrown several large silver rings which will pass "through" the tightly taped thumbs and bound hands to loop over one arm.

"It's mind-boggling how he does it," one observer noted after seeing Monti perform the trick.

Officer Friendly Fred Hoffmann said Monti is expected to bring along his extensive display of handcuffs to the benefit game, Feb. 28.

Markey named manager of GC Prudential

J. F. "Jim" Markey, a Mount Vernon resident, has been promoted to manager of Prudential's Granite City district agency. He formerly was supervisor of the company's Illinois region district agencies.

Jack Cross, director of agencies, said that Markey began his Prudential career as an agent in Mount Vernon in September 1965. He was advanced to sales manager in February 1969. He became regional supervisor in December 1976.

Markey is a 1954 graduate of Pocahontas (Ill.) High School. He continued his education at Southern Illinois University at Carbondale.

He is married to the former Lois Schmollinger of Pocahontas. They are the parents of three children: Jimmie, 19; Michael, 17; and a 14-year-old daughter, Cheryl. The family will move to the Granite City area in the near future.

Chemical bans minor in 1978

By GORDON BILLINGSLEY

SPRINGFIELD — New laws that require persons to be licensed before using certain pesticides probably will not affect most Illinois farmers this year, a Department of Agriculture official says.

However, about 40 percent of Illinois farmers will need to be certified by the state to use some pesticides in 1978, according to Dwight Dunbar, chief of the bureau of plant and apiary protection, the state agency charged with administering pesticide use laws.

"I really don't think production will be affected in 1978," Dunbar said. "The federal Environmental Protection Agency won't be geared up to complete its list of restricted chemicals by planting time."

"It will be nine months, maybe 12 months, before they can get caught up," he said.

The list of restricted chemicals, those deemed by the EPA to be dangerous to use, is required by 1972 federal laws. In order to use chemicals on that list, farmers must be certified by the state as competent pesticide applicators.

The list was supposed to be completed by last October, but the EPA fell behind in the re-registration process. And those chemicals now appearing on the 22-pesticide list are not commonly used by Illinois corn and soybean farmers, according to Dunbar.

Five pesticides commonly used to control corn rootworm infestations have been proposed as additions to the list, and probably will be added by next year, according to Dunbar.

They are: Puradan, Mocap, Thimet, Dyfonate, and Coumat.

Farmers who have not obtained state certification by 1979 may have to hire many chemical applications. Currently, about 45,000 farmers have received state licenses to use restricted pesticides. About 64,000 will need certification by the 1979 planting season. There are about 80,000 farmers in the state.

Chemicals that are not restricted will be called general use pesticides, and will be sold in retail outlets. They include common bug and roach sprays.

The five common pesticides pegged for restriction were among a group of 36 pesticides the EPA recently announced.

Farmers can be certified by completing a 100-question test prepared by the Agriculture Department, or by satisfactorily completing a pesticide use course given by the Cooperative Extension Service of the University of Illinois.

Those who complete the course will be required to take a test.

There are local extension service offices in the county seat of each of Illinois' 102 counties. Farmers may contact their local county offices for information about when pesticide use training courses will be offered.

Certification by one of the courses lasts for five years, at which time farmers will have to complete another course.

Dunbar said he does not expect most of the 35,000 uncertified farmers to seek certification before planting time this year, but that most farmers will be licensed by next year.

Swing bands booked for Mardi Gras Ball

Two bands have been booked for the American Cancer Society's Mardi Gras Ball which will be held at the Lewis and Clark Restaurant Ballroom on Saturday, March 11.

The Jim Pritchett Quintet will launch the festivities at 8 p.m. a.m. Sunday, at John Cochran Veterans' Hospital, St. Louis. The band includes: Bob Howard, vocalist, Leo Krieger playing drums, Ed James, bass, and Jim Pritchett on organ and piano. All are accomplished musicians.

The Mississippi Mudcats will be returning to play for the fifth year at the ball.

Jean Kittrell, pianist, is unable to perform this year, but she will be replaced by Emmett McHale, one of the best swing piano players around, the Mardi Gras committee said.

Dan Havers, trumpet, leads the group, with Leon King on trombone, Warren Brown, clarinet, Jim Hansen, drums, and Wally Eckert on bass.

The Mudcats currently have several albums out on the Meridian label.

Reservations for the Mardi Gras Ball still are available at the American Cancer Society office, 529 Henry St., Alton, or by calling 1-465-7821.

Mrs. Mattie Smiley dies

Mrs. Mattie Lee Smiley, 57, of 1024 Calhoun St., Venice, chef at the former Rose Bowl Restaurant in Granite City for 13 years, died at 7:50 a.m. Sunday, at John Cochran Veterans' Hospital, St. Louis.

Mrs. Smiley, who had served four years in the Women's Army Corps during World War II, was hospitalized for six months. She had been in ill health for the past year.

Born in Bernice, La., Mrs. Smiley lived in Venice more than 30 years. She was head cook at the former Rose Bowl Restaurant in Granite City, The Den and at Charlie's for a period spanning over 26 years.

While in military service, between 1943 and 1947, Mrs. Smiley served overseas as a surgical technician and held the rank of private first class. She was a member and past president of Henry Mitchell Southern Baptist Missionary Church of Venice, where she was a former choir member and served on the Ushers' Board. She also belonged to the Seven-Eleven Club.

Apply at CYS office for food supplemental program

Coordinated Youth Services, 1254 Niedringhaus Ave., a United Way agency, is taking applications for the Women, Infants and Children's Program (WIC) for Madison County.

Applications for the federally funded food supplemental program are taken each week at the CYS office in Granite City, or information may be obtained by calling the office at 876-2383.

The program is designed to bring into the home those foods which are high in iron, protein and Vitamins A and C.

The food is delivered to the home by Prairie Farms Dairy of Granite City on a weekly basis, according to Frank Signaigo, the WIC staff.

Financial, nutritional and medical evaluations are made every six months in order to determine the continuing need for the food supplemental program and nutritional counseling is given on an individual basis and also in classroom settings, Signaigo explained.

Specific eligibility requirements call for a WIC participant to be a pregnant woman, an infant or a child under 4 years.

An additional service provided participants is the various referral services available in Madison County. The person taking part also must meet the financial, nutritional and medical standards set by federal regulations and/or state for the WIC program, Signaigo said.

Income levels, which also are part of the overall requirements, are as follows, with the family size and income levels listed in sequence:

One, $6,120; two, $8,050; three, $9,970; four, $11,880; five, $13,810; and six, $15,890. The income level rises by $1,420 for each additional family member, Signaigo explained.

Applications are being taken in the Collinsville area, at 84 Burlington Ave., on the first Tuesday of each month from 9:30 a.m. to 11 a.m. and from 12:30 p.m. to 2:30 p.m.

Further details concerning the program may be secured by calling 288-9298 in Edwardsville, 254-8087 in the Alton area and 876-2383 in Granite City.

Nurse week proclaimed

Commending nurses as "men and women dedicated to serving the sick and injured," Governor James R. Thompson has proclaimed March 12-18 Illinois Nurses' Week.

The governor signed the official proclamation as registered nurses Marna Seibel, Charla Miral and Annie Lawrence, president of the Illinois Nurses' Association, looked on.

He noted that in 1978, Illinois Nurses' Week is being celebrated during the "Year of the Nurse" declared by the American Nurses' Association. ANA designated the year of the nurse to inform the public about what nurses do and to emphasize nursing's contribution to health care.

"Today's nurse is an independent health professional who works in many settings — hospitals, community clinics, rural health centers, homes for the aged, schools, industry, the governor continued.

The Illinois Nurses' Association, one of ANA's constituent organizations, will promote Illinois Nurses' Week and the Year of the Nurse through its district organizations.

Programs for the 19th annual week will center on the theme, "Nurses — Qualified to Care." In many communities, civic leaders will be invited to "spend a day with a nurse" so they can learn about nursing first-hand.

Approves Dron zoning request

The Granite City Plan Commission has gone on record as supporting a request by R. Dron Electric for a C-2 commercial classification at 1726 Cleveland Blvd., for the storage of equipment.

Dron currently leases the property, which is zoned R-5 for residential use, and plans to purchase it if the zoning change is granted by the Granite City Council.

Richard Kerch, vice-president of Dron Electric, told the Plan Commission the property would be fenced and the entry would be from the alley at the rear.

There were no objectors to the plan at the meeting, so the Plan Commission voted to endorse the plan. The endorsement will be considered by the Granite City Council when it acts on the zoning request at its Feb. 21 meeting.

Lincoln heritage trail offers spring diversions

Towns along the Lincoln Heritage Trail are gearing up to welcome the winter-weary visitors who will soon come ... as surely as the first breath of spring ... to follow Mr. Lincoln's footsteps through the land he knew and loved.

The 2,200-mile marked route that meanders along the high-ways and byways of Kentucky, Indiana and Illinois offers a potpourri of spring and summer pleasures ... festivals and fairs, races, theater under the stars, trails to hike and antiques to discover.

Visitors' tastes range from down-home cooking to gourmet dining, from big city pleasures to small town treasures.

State parks along the route become havens for test and trailer enthusiasts, providing a wealth of outdoor recreational opportunities along with electrical hook-ups and hot showers.

The Lincoln Day Celebration in Hodgenville, Ky., in early February traditionally gives "raisplitters" the first chance to flex their muscles as they vie for top honors at this annual event that honors Kentucky's favorite son.

As the days become longer and warmer, these men will demonstrate their prowess again and again at festivals along the Trail.

But it all begins in Hodgenville, just a few miles from the site where Abraham Lincoln was born at Sinking Spring Farm, now known as the Lincoln Birthplace National Historic Site.

When Abraham Lincoln, grandfather of the President, was killed by Indians, his widow, Bathsheba, moved to Washington County, Ky., with her five young sons.

At the Lincoln Homestead State Shrine, near Springfield, Ky., is a replica of the cabin in which they lived.

Some of the furniture in the cabin was built by President Lincoln's father, Thomas, who was killed by Indians, his widow, Bathsheba, moved to Washington County, Ky., with her five young sons.

At Elizabethtown, designated 1977 Lincoln Heritage Trail City of the Year in Kentucky, the Sunday afternoon yacht races at Freeman Lake start in April.

The Lincoln Heritage House which Thomas helped construct opens to the public in June.

Louisville, the largest city on the entire Trail, hosts the 104th "Run for the Roses" May 6.

During the Kentucky Derby Festival which starts the preceding week, it's a "mad, mad world" as balloons race through the clouds and steamboats race through the water. The traditional Pegasus Parade is on May 4.

The new Kentucky Horse Park near Lexington is expected to be one of the most popular attractions along the Trail this year. The park was built to honor all the work and pleasure horses which are a rich part of Kentucky's heritage.

Visitors can tour the grounds via horse-drawn carriage or stroll through the lush bluegrass to the Visitor Center, museum, restaurant, several tracks, the polo field, the memorial to Man O'War.

At the Living Historical Farm, part of the Lincoln Boyhood National Memorial near Lincoln City, Ind., spring planting gets under way about mid-April. The sights, the sounds, the smells of an Indiana "pioneer" farm surround one as costumed "pioneers" plant and cultivate the crops, tend the livestock, and perform the 101 daily chores that were all part of the way of life when Lincoln was a lad.

The farm is located a pleasant half-mile stroll along a natural trail that connects it with the Memorial Visitor Center and the grave of Nancy Hanks Lincoln.

On Memorial Day weekend, "soldiers" and "camp-followers" will take over the grounds of the George Rogers Clark National Historical Park at Vincennes, Ind.

They will be joined by French-costumed voyageurs, arriving by canoe to instruct in trapping, fur trading and canoe construction.

It's all part of Vincennes' "Banks of the Wabash Festival" staged in tribute to the small band of soldiers who fought beside George Rogers Clark to capture Ft. Sackville in 1779.

The Hoosier State also will welcome visitors to the International Speed Classic, the "500" race at the Indianapolis Speedway, May 28.

The race practice runs May 6. The 1977 Indiana Lincoln Heritage Trail City of the Year is New Harmony, home of the Golden Raintree.

The city was founded in 1814 by Father Rapp's Harmonist Society which carved a uniquely civilized and prosperous town out of the wilderness of the Indiana Territory.

In 1825, the town was sold to a Welsh-born industrialist and social reformer, Robert Owen, who undertook an ambitious Utopian experiment which brought together eminent naturalists and educators.

A tour of Historic New Harmony today takes visitors through exhibition buildings that capture and capsule the total New Harmony experience.

Programs, concerts and theater productions occur frequently as part of the town's on-going cultural program.

Illinois College was the first college in the state to have a basketball team. Founded in 1829, the college will celebrate its 150 years of existence in 1979 with a sequentennial observance to commemorate the occasion.

Visitors can watch the entire process from tree selection and tapping to the making of the syrup before making the rounds of the many other Lincoln sites in the city.

The Visitors Center at the Abraham Lincoln Home National Historic District, Eighth and Jackson St., is one place to begin.

The only home Mr. Lincoln ever owned is just a hundred feet or so away, an 1839 frame house furnished as in the mid-1800s.

Young Tad's toys are scattered on the floor and Mr. Lincoln's stovepipe hat hangs in the downstairs hall.

Across the street, featuring equipment as modern as tomorrow along with some unique examples of by-gone telephones and switchboards, is Illinois Bell's Oliver P. Parks Telephone Museum.

During the summer months, a sound and light show at the Old State Capitol recreates the Lincoln era through modern technology. The Old Capitol, however, is open year-round.

Considered an outstanding restoration, it appears for all the world that the legislators who once roamed its halls will return at any second to take up the affairs of state.

The Lincoln Depot Museum, the Lincoln-Herdon Building where Lincoln and his partner, Logan, had their law offices, and the Lincoln Tomb at Oak Ridge Cemetery are but a few of the many historic places that draw thousands to Illinois' capital each spring.

The 23 buildings at New Salem State Park, 20 miles northwest of Springfield, depict the town where Lincoln once lived and worked and dreamed his dreams of greatness.

Scott said claims, with supporting proof, should be sent to the Virginia Office of Consumer Affairs, P.O. Box 1163, Richmond, Va., before March 1.

Scott described the "envelope stuffing" advertisement scheme as "a vicious practice which victimizes handicapped and elderly people who need funds and are tempted by the chance to do some work in their own homes. Even though the financial loss to each person is seemingly small, these people can't afford to lose it."

Scott said that, in effect, the firms were soliciting to set up a "daisy chain" of deception.

The two firms involved are refunding all money involved to their clients and have agreed to stop operations, Scott said.

Scott also advised that any Illinois resident who responded to an "envelope stuffing" ad offered by a firm called

Earned income credit for some federal taxpayers

Working parents who earned less than $8,000 last year again may be eligible for payments of up to $400 from the government, Ira S. Loeb, IRS District Director for central and southern Illinois, said today.

To qualify for Earned Income Credit, persons must have had an adjusted gross income or earned income of less than $8,000 in 1977 and must have maintained a household for the entire year for their child who was under 19, a full-time student or a disabled dependent.

For eligible persons, the credit is 10 percent of the first $4,000 of earned income, with a maximum credit of $400. The credit is reduced by one dollar for each $10 of earned or adjusted gross income over $4,000, phasing out completely at the $8,000 income mark.

The credit can be used to reduce income taxes owed or can be received as a refund where there is no tax liability. Eligible persons can qualify for Earned Income Credit even though they may have paid in no income tax during the year, but the IRS stressed that they must file a 1977 federal income tax return to get it.

The IRS automatically will compute the credit for taxpayers. Eligible Form 1040 filers must write "EIC" and the name of the qualifying child on line 57 of the return. Taxpayers who file form 1040A need only write the name of the qualifying child on line 10.

Publication 596, "Tax Benefit for Low-Income Individuals," contains details on Earned Income Credit and is available free at IRS offices.

Continuing education workshop

A continuing education workshop sponsored by General Studies and the Gerontology Program at SIUE is scheduled for Monday, Feb. 27, from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m.

Topics discussed will include alternative routes to earning a degree, credit for life-experiences, Open University, transfer credits, job market trends, career changes and updating, and various university services.

There will be an optional follow-up day of new-student orientation to acquaint interested persons with class registration procedures.

In charge of the workshop is Louise Saunders, SIUE academic adviser, whose special interest is continuing education for people who have never had the chance to go to college, or have had to drop out of college and now want to return for career or personal reasons.

Mrs. Saunders has held eight workshops since 1976 for people from 20 to 60 years of age. "It's a re-examination," she said. "A lot of people get to the stage where they have to do this to still feel useful and to keep growing in their careers or personal lives."

The workshop is free and will be held in the SIUE General Studies office. Free parking will be provided in red sticker parking lots.

Pre-registration is required before Feb. 22. Interested persons may call Mrs. Saunders at the SIUE General Studies office, 692-2242, or write in care of SIUE, Box 44.

'Solar Sun Day' May 3

A nation-wide "Solar Sun Day" will be held Wednesday, May 3, and Illinois citizens have special reasons to begin observing plans for its observance, according to Representative Joe E. Lucco (D-Edwardsville), chairman of the Illinois Energy Commission.

Representative Lucco urged state residents to join in planning an outstanding "Solar Sun Day," marking the arrival of solar energy as a practical energy resource.

He said, "Illinois has now become a leader in the solar energy field, by virtue of passage of Senate Bill 944, the first comprehensive solar energy legislation in the United States, sponsored by commission members Senator John Nimrod (R-Glenview) and Representative Adeline J. Geo-Karis (R-Zion); and House Bill 1279, sponsored by Representative Geo-Karis and commission member Senator John Knappell (D-Virginia), which amends the Coal Development Bond Act to include $5 million for solar energy and other research and development projects."

Representative Lucco said, "The public should become more conscious of the great strides being taken in solar energy development in Illinois and its present availability as a clean renewable energy source for various industrial and residential applications."

On "Solar Sun Day," Wednesday, May 3, we visualize a special effort being made by all pertinent governmental, educational, and industrial sectors throughout the state to bring solar energy information to the public of Illinois. Representative Lucco has asked the Governor to proclaim the week of May 1 through May 7 as Solar Energy Week in Illinois and that Wednesday, May 3, be proclaimed as "Solar Sun Day." He also plans to introduce a resolution on "Solar Sun Day" into the General Assembly.

Representative Lucco said now was not too early for Illinois citizens to begin the extensive planning required for an outstanding "Solar Sun Day." May 3, "Also," Lucco said, "calling to mind now, the warming and brightening spring sun, which undoubtedly gives us solace upon Wednesday, May 3, will help take our minds off of the terrible weather we are now having."

Organizations and individuals wishing to volunteer in area "Solar Sun Day" planning and activities should contact Representative Joe E. Lucco, Chairman, Illinois Energy Resources Commission, 109 Purcell St., Edwardsville, Ill. 62025, as soon as possible.

Send tax return to the proper agency

An income tax return sent to the wrong tax collecting agency can cause lengthy delays in tax refunds and in getting a taxpayer's account cleared, according to the state revenue department.

Revenue officers say that hundreds of taxpayers each year send their federal income tax return to the state revenue department and their state return to the federal Internal Revenue Service.

"Both the IRS and the revenue department will forward these mis-filed returns to the right agency," said Gary Ey, income tax processing manager, "but this can add weeks to the time it takes to process a return."

"If the mistake occurs toward the end of the filing season and we don't get the state return until after the filing deadline—April 15 this year—a taxpayer could be assessed a late-filing penalty."

By suggested these other reviews to insure accurate filing:

—If you received an income tax booklet, use the pre-printed label and pre-addressed envelope to file your return.

—Double-check arithmetic. —Be sure to attach W-2s and other documents to support deductions and claims. The proper documents are listed in the instructions for the return.

—Sign the return. And have your spouse sign if it's a joint return.

SIUE Dental School re-accredited; plans studied for expansion

Future developments on the Alton Campus of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville's School of Dental Medicine were discussed by Dr. Kenneth A. Shaw, president of the university, in an address to members of the Alton Women's Council, late last week.

Citing recent developments at the School of Dental Medicine, President Shaw told members of the council the school received notice that it again has been accredited by the Commission on Accreditation of Dental and Dental Auxiliary Educational Programs of the American Dental Association (ADA).

"The re-accreditation is an affirmation at the highest professional level of the quality of our performance," the president said.

Another major development at the school is the approval this week by the Board of Higher Education for a change in the Doctor of Dental Medicine Degree program from three to four years, Shaw said.

The change will be initiated with the class entering school this fall.

The university president pointed out that modification of the instructional program will increase the number of hours taken by the students, thus improving the quality of their academic performance.

In discussing the future development of the school's physical plant, Shaw said, the university administration has three options under consideration. One option would entail renovating the existing facilities extensively and constructing an additional building. A second option calls for razing the present facilities and rebuilding on the same location.

A third option would be to relocate the School of Dental Medicine on the Edwardsville campus.

Shaw pointed out that the ultimate decision would hinge on three considerations. The choice will depend on the amount of money available, the character of the school's programmatic offerings and the best environment for them.

The impact any change in the school's physical facilities would have on the Alton community would also be taken into serious consideration, the president said.

Looking at higher education in general, Shaw said, "Not so long ago, it was fashionable to downgrade the value of education—to complain very loudly about some fundamental failure on the part of the system to deal with basic needs of the students who were being sent out into the world, unprepared to meet its most essential demands."

The university administrator feels the mood is now more optimistic. "But if school is going to continue to be worthwhile, we have to be aware of some powerful trends that will drastically alter our view of what higher education is meant to accomplish," Shaw said.

According to the president, the four dynamic forces currently at work shaping the future of education are continuing education for adults, accountability, innovation from within, and an emphasis on the basic skills.

Whatever the future brings, Shaw said he believes SIUE will be prepared to handle it. "When the future comes, we will be ready for it," he said.

Death, dying will be topic for nurses

A workshop on understanding death and dying is scheduled at SIUE for nurses wishing to expand their knowledge in the field of health care delivery.

Sponsored by the Continuing Education Program in the SIUE School of Nursing, the workshop will be divided into six sessions. Sessions are scheduled for March 6, 13 and 27 and April 3, 10 and 17 from 6 to 8 p.m.

The initial meeting will be in the Missouri Room of the University Center. Remaining sessions will meet in the Mississippi Room of the center. Registration for all six sessions is $25. Deadline for registration will be Feb. 27, according to Betty Boyd Walker, director of the program.

Enrollment will be limited to 30 participants. Applications will be accepted on a first-come, first-served basis. Participants attending all six sessions will be awarded 12 contact hours.

Instructors for the course will be: Jean M. Walters, regional director of the eastern division of the School of Metaphysics; Richard L. Cass, faculty member at the University of Missouri; and Angela E. Cass of the School of Metaphysics.

Participants will examine their own attitudes toward death and dying and the importance of these attitudes in the care of the dying. They will also increase their knowledge of current issues in clinical practices as they relate to death and dying.

Workshop on laundry problems

"Your Wash" was the title of a workshop attended by program assistants from Madison County's Consumer and Homemaking Education Program. Marjorie Sohn, University of Illinois Extension textiles and clothing specialist, taught them about laundry procedures, detergents, bleaches, hard water and how to deal with common laundry problems.

Other members of the CHEP staff gave suggestions for re-teaching the information, and guided activity sessions.

The workshop was conducted via TeleNet, a remote teaching telephone network, by the University of Illinois Cooperative Extension Service in cooperation with the Department of Adult, Vocational and Technical Education of the Illinois Office of Education.

TeleNet is a network of 44 telephones in Cooperative Extension Service offices throughout the state. The network is similar to a radio broadcast except that the sound travels over telephone wires. Participants hear over a speaker, and everyone can talk or listen from any of the locations around the state. It allows statewide meetings without the participants having to travel.

Program assistants attending the workshop included Norma Burns and Wilma Hancock, Granite City; Drew Helen Johnson, East St. Louis; Yvonne Marr and Margaret Wade, Venice; Nora Woods, Juanita Merrifield, Lily Mae Wilson and Vivian Allen, Alton; and Eva Mae Davenport and Verna McClelland, Madison.

The objective of the Consumer and Homemaking Education Program is to teach limited resource families how to manage their resources wisely. Program assistants make home visits, conduct group meetings and work in cooperation with other agencies.

For further information about CHEP, Quad-Cityans may contact Karen Heiregel, Box 645, 132 N. Kansas, Edwardsville (656-9227).

EIU Band to perform here Tuesday in memorial event

The Eastern Illinois University Symphonic Band, under the direction of Harold Hillier, will present a varied program of music to benefit the Alfred H. Hicks Scholarship Fund in Memorial Gymnasium at Granite City High School South at 8 p.m. Tuesday, Feb. 21.

Joe E. Owens, consultant of music for the Granite City School District, said the public is invited to attend the concert. Tickets, costing $1 for adults and 75 cents for students, may be purchased at the door or in advance from band students and at John Fornaszewski Music Store, Jack Johnson Music, Inc., and National School of Music.

Proceeds from the concert will be used to further the Alfred H. Hicks Scholarship Fund, which was established to provide financial assistance to a deserving double reed music major enrolled in an area college.

Mr. Hicks, a professional musician, performed with the St. Louis Symphony and conducted the St. Louis Philharmonic Orchestra.

He also played violin in the Muncy Opera Orchestra. An educator, Mr. Hicks helped many students and band directors in the metropolitan two-state region.

Conductor Hillier, who is director of bands at Eastern Illinois University at Charleston, joined the EIU faculty in 1972. He is an assistant professor of music and specializes in cornet and trumpet.

He received his training in the public schools of Montrose, Colo., the University of Michigan, Wichita State University and the University of Southern California, during which time he studied with such respected music educators as Lloyd Hillier, William D. Revelli, Clifford Lilly, James P. Robertson, Clarence E. Sawhill, Ralph Rush and Ingolf Dahl, among others.

Hillier received a bachelor's degree in music education from Wichita State University and a master of music degree from the University of Southern California. He taught high school music in the states of Colorado, Missouri and New Jersey.

Before joining the faculty of EIU, he was director of bands at the University of Texas at El Paso for 10 years.

Hillier is a member of the College Band Directors National Association, the Phi Beta Mu, American School Band Directors, Kappa Kappa Psi and Tau Beta Sigma national honorary band fraternities and the American Bandmasters Association. He is listed in Who's Who in American Education.

He has served as clinician, adjudicator, lecturer and guest conductor on many occasions in the southwestern and mid-western states.

At EIU, Hillier is director of the Symphonic Wind Ensemble, the Marching Blue of EIU and supervises all band activities.

On the evening before the band's performance in Granite City, the EIU musicians will practice concert the Affton (Mo.) High School, Owens said.

Riggs workshop, ballet on BAC Festival program

Belleville Area College's first major evening production for the sixth annual Fine Arts Festival, the Maynard Ferguson concert, was a sellout.

BAC Student Activities Director Ray Moddrell, and Fine Arts Department Chairman Chet Hughes, indicate that they expect the success of that event to set the tone for the following two weeks of entertaining and cultural programs planned for the festival.

The next events which will have widespread interest will be the Dudley Riggs Workshop on Friday, Feb. 17 and the Missouri Concert Ballet on Sunday.

The Dudley Riggs Workshop, a group of improvisational actors, will entertain during the second annual dinner theater.

At 6:30 p.m. Friday, BAC actors will serve steaks, double-baked potato, and green beans almonde to the dinner-theater guests. At 8:30, the audience will move to college theater for the performance.

Reservations are necessary for the dinner-theater, and may be made in the Student Activities Office on the main campus at 2500 Carlyle Road in Belleville (or by sending a check to that office).

The Dudley Riggs Workshop is free. The satirical reviews that make up the act are performed from a stage that is left bare, except for the occasional use of bentwood chairs. The costumes are merely suggested by a hat, a belt or a jacket, and props are frequently pantomimed.

A typical Brave New Workshop production consists of a series of sketches on subjects ranging from current calamities to tomorrow's headlines.

According to the workshop's agent, Dudley Riggs' actors and actresses have moved on to work as writers and performers for such shows as Saturday Night Live, Mary Tyler Moore, Happy Days, Laverne and Shirley, and many others.

At home in Minneapolis, Dudley Riggs Brave New Workshop performs nine shows a week. Creating full-length productions through improvisation, the crew has come up with the likes of "I'm OK—You're a Jerk," "On a Clear Day You Can See Your Mother," and "Present Tense, Future Perfect."

Patti Woods, a graduate of Macomb High School, Belleville Area College, and McKendree College will be one of the principal dancers for the Missouri Ballet Performance on Sunday at 3 p.m. in the college theater. She and Ronald Rosenberg will be featured dancers in Bach's "Piano Concerto," and "Aurora's Wedding."

Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Woods of Mascoutah. The ballet is free and open to the public.

Iron Institute assails record imports of steel during 1977

Steel imports surged to a record 19,307,000 tons in 1977, accounting for 17.8 percent of the nation's total domestic steel supply, according to data released by the American Iron and Steel Institute. The previous record year was 1971 when 18.3 million tons of foreign steel were imported.

December's foreign steel shipments into this country totaled 2,086,000 tons—the highest one-month total of the year. Imports accounted for 23.3 percent of the month's apparent steel supply.

The main reason for the end-of-the-year surge was shipments from the European Economic Community, which reached 970,000 tons in December—the highest one-month total during 1977. For the year as a whole, imports from the EEC more than doubled, reaching 8,833,000 tons, compared to 3,188,000 tons in 1976.

Japan, however, remained the largest supplier of imported steel to the United States. The Japanese shipped 7,820,000 tons of steel into the U.S. last year. In the last six months of 1977, total steel imports reached 11.3 million tons or 20.7 percent of the nation's total apparent steel supply for that period.

"Steel imports of that magnitude are intolerable," said Edgar B. Speer, chairman of the American Iron and Steel Institute.

"They jeopardize our domestic steel industry and with it the American economy," he noted that 68,000 American steelworkers had been declared eligible for federal trade adjustment assistance as a result of job loss due directly to imports.

"As in past years," he added, "imports hurt virtually all the growth in our domestic steel market. This could not have happened if our government had enforced the anti-dumping and other trade laws put on the books to halt unfair trade practices."

Speer, who is also chairman of the United States Steel Corporation, noted that the volume of European steel imports "underscores the fact that despite public and official concern in the United States over the economic crisis facing our domestic steel industry, many foreign steel producers still seem to feel they can continue dumping their excess production in our market." He pointed out that the EEC nations recently instituted a system of reference prices for the steel imports similar to the system which will soon go into effect in this country, and violators already are being cited. He also noted that the Common Market currently is negotiating a series of agreements with various non-EEC nations aimed at restricting steel imports.

Speer said that the large increase in steel imports into this country in the second half of the year was not justified by U.S. market demand. "I can only believe that some foreign producers were trying to dump as much steel in our market as they could before the Treasury Department's plan for monitoring dumping went into effect," he asserted.

"This is the purest kind of predatory marketing practice—something from which American steelmakers and their workers have suffered for entirely too long," Speer said.

Theft charged

Michael Wayne Jordan, 18, of 3925 Gault Walk, Pontoon Beach, was arrested at 2000 Edison Ave. Monday on a warrant alleging theft. It is alleged Jordan stole about 100 steel panels with porcelain faces from a yard in the 2500 block of Washington Ave., Dec. 21. The panels were owned by Paul Harsanyi, 2428 Cleveland Blvd.

Jordan was released after posting $150 bond.

SALES TAX ALLOTTED
The Illinois Department of Revenue has allocated $106,859 in state sales taxes to Madison County for the month of November. The allocation totaled $109,040, with $2,180 deducted for cost of administration of the account by the state.

Long John Silver's

SEAFOOD SHOPPES

Super Ocean Cruise SWEEPSTAKES OFFICIAL RULES

1. You may enter by obtaining an entry form at any participating Long John Silver's Seafood Shoppe or from your local newspaper carrying the Sweepstakes advertisement. Or, you may enter by obtaining an entry form by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope to: Super Ocean Cruise Entry Form, P.O. Box 1776, Fair Lawn, New Jersey 07410. NO PURCHASE NECESSARY - ENTER AS OFTEN AS YOU LIKE.

2. To determine if you hold a winning entry form, anytime before March 26, 1978, the date the Sweepstakes closes, take the entry form with your name and address on the reverse side, to any participating Long John Silver's Seafood Shoppe and use the Pirate Pen available at the Shoppe to reveal whether or not you have won a Grand Prize. If you are unable to find the Super Ocean Cruise display, you may sign your entry form and mail it with a stamped, self-addressed envelope to: Super Ocean Cruise Entry, P.O. Box 800, Fair Lawn, New Jersey 07410. Your entry will be judged and returned.

3. An entry form which reveals a Grand Prize must be mailed by certified or registered mail to the judging agency, Einson-Freeman Promotion Group, for validation. Mail to Super Ocean Cruise Sweepstakes, P.O. Box 858, Fair Lawn, New Jersey 07410. Winning entries must be postmarked by March 27, 1978, and received by April 26, 1978. Details will be forwarded to you.

4. If your entry form did not reveal a winning Grand Prize, you may still be eligible to win. All Grand Prizes will be awarded. With your name and address clearly written on the back of the entry form, either deposit your entry form in the container provided at any participating Long John Silver's Seafood Shoppe or mail the entry form to: Super Ocean Cruise Sweepstakes, P.O. Box 900, Fair Lawn, New Jersey 07410. All entries must be postmarked no later than March 27, 1978. Mailed entries must be received by the judging agency on or before April 26, 1978. Entries received will be subject to a random drawing to be held, if necessary, to insure all Grand Prizes are awarded.

5. Decisions of the independent judging agency shall be final.

6. Only one Grand Prize per household shall be awarded. If a minor wins a Grand Prize, it will be awarded in the name of the parent or legal guardian. Prizes are not transferable. Chances of winning a Grand Prize are dependent on the number of entrants. For a list of winners send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to: Cruise Winners, P.O. Box 1500, Fair Lawn, New Jersey 07410.

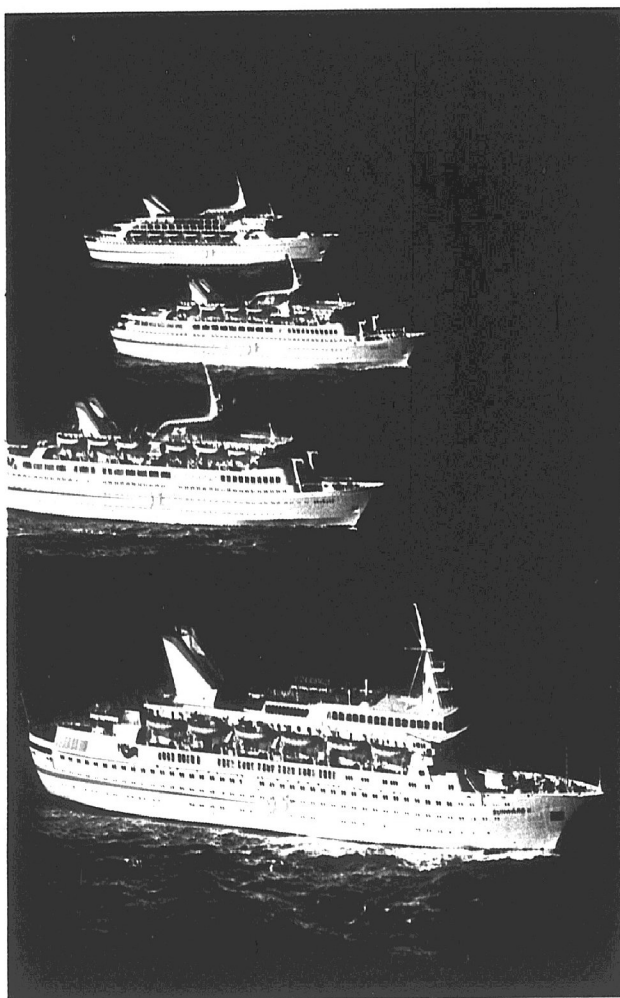

7. Winners are responsible for all local, state and federal taxes and other applicable taxes.

8. Sweepstakes and food and drink offers are not open to employees (and their families) of Long John Silver's, Inc., its franchisees, Norwegian Caribbean Lines, Einson-Freeman and their respective affiliates. Winners may be subject to proving eligibility and if requested, shall grant Long John Silver's, Inc. or its designee all rights of publicity with respect to the winning and awarding of the Grand Prize and accounts of the cruise.

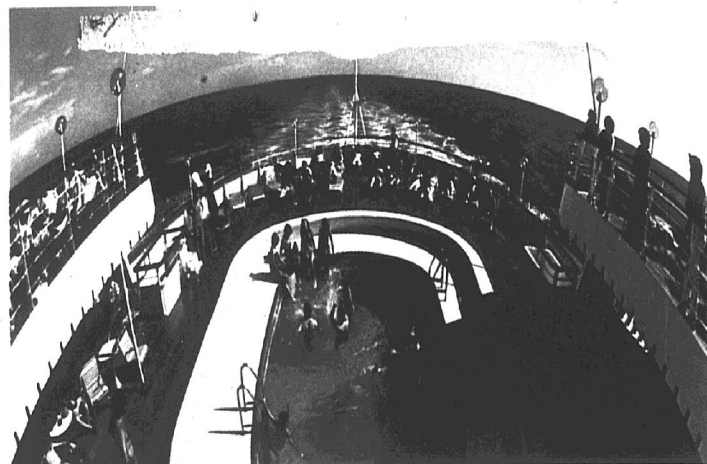

9. Every entry form contains a food or soft drink offer which you can redeem pursuant to its terms at any participating Long John Silver's Seafood Shoppe.

			Washington

The Miami hotel accommodations are limited to a room for four at a Miami hotel to be designated by Norwegian Caribbean Lines for the two nights prior to the cruise departure date. Grand Prize winners and their guests shall be responsible for all expenses and charges for their transportation between their residence and a Gateway city, gratuities, optional side trips associated with the cruise, alcoholic beverages, entertainment and all other personal expenses.

It's Fun To Play

1. Bring the attached entry form to any participating Long John Silver's Seafood Shoppe. Or pick up an entry form every time you visit the shoppe. No purchase necessary. (See attached rules for complete details.)

2. At the Super Ocean Cruise Display in the shoppe, rub the island on your entry form lightly with our special Pirate Pen.

3. If the words "Super Ocean Cruise Winner" appear, you win. But, even if you don't win the Grand Prize, you'll still find one of Long John Silver's food offers - free 20 ounce soft drink, slaw, hushpuppies, or corn with your next purchase, or a free Fish & Fries dinner. Then, if you like, you can turn in your entry form and be eligible for a special drawing which will be held if necessary to award all Grand Prizes.
